Colonel Says He Sat on Lid in 1907 When Disaster Threatened Nation

Declares Steel Trust Deal Was Put Through With His Approval

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt took the witness stand today in the Congressional inquiry into the United States Steel Corporation, to tell what he knew regarding the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company by the steel corporation during the panic of 1907.

Roosevelt reached the City Hall at 10:30 a. m. His intention to appear had been kept secret, but a few moments before his arrival police officers were stationed in the adjacent chamber and its approaches.

COLONEL IN GOOD HUMOR. The former President appeared in good humor and greeted Chairman Stanley and other members of the committee with enthusiasm. "I'm glad to see you all," he declared as he stood in the center of a group of committeemen.

"I'm very delighted to see you in, indeed, sir," he said to Representative Young of Michigan, a Republican member of the committee.

Roosevelt took the stand at once. "There have been certain matters concerning which there has been much discussion," Chairman Stanley announced, "and the committee desired Mr. Roosevelt's information thereto. Mr. Roosevelt did not come in response to a subpoena. He was advised of our desire to hear from him with reference to the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company. He kindly advised me that he would gladly come and we thank him for his appearance."

Roosevelt explained that he had prepared a written statement and was permitted to read it.

DUTY, HE DECLARES. Introducing his subject by describing the financial panic conditions in 1907, he said:

"It was the utmost duty of the administration to prevent by all means the spread of the panic before it became a disaster."

The Secretary of the Treasury and himself, he said, were constantly in touch on the situation. During that

GREENE IS DEAD IN MEXICO

Former Copper Magnate Succumbs Despite Efforts of Corps of Physicians

Injuries Sustained in Runaway Brings on Fatal Attack of Pneumonia

CANANEA, Mex., Aug. 5.—Colonel W. C. Greene, the former copper magnate, died at 5 o'clock this morning. He succumbed to acute pneumonia, which developed as a result of injuries he sustained in a runaway accident here last Monday.

Death came to Colonel Greene shortly after the arrival of a corps of physicians and nurses, who were rushed here by special train and automobiles from El Paso. They brought supplies of oxygen and spent the last few hours striving to stay off the end but the stricken man never rallied, and passed away in the presence of his wife and children, who had been constantly at his bedside.

Last Monday Colonel Greene was thrown from his carriage, when his team of horses ran away. His collar bone and two of his ribs were fractured. On Thursday the acute pneumonia condition developed in his lungs and at once messages were sent to El Paso to rush hither several physicians and nurses.

TRAIN BREAKS RECORD. The doctors boarded a special train which arrived last night at Naco, Arizona, after a record-breaking trip from El Paso. At Naco the party, carrying tanks of oxygen, took automobiles and sped across the sixty miles of desert to Cananea in the dead of night. The oxygen was administered at once. The physicians exercised all their skill, but the patient failed to rally.

Colonel Greene was the most picturesque and one of the best-known of the group of copper magnates who have operated in the southwest, because of his meteoric rise from the position of a penniless prospector to directing genius of the Cananea copper camp.

From the time he assumed ownership here until he encountered reverses in the panic year of 1907, Greene was one of the dominant figures in the copper industry.

COMES WEST AT 17. He was born August 26, 1853, at Duck Creek, Wis.

When he was 17 years of age he came West, and after a period of prospecting became a rancher in Arizona. It was as a farmer that he made the "strike" that enabled him to purchase from the widow of Governor Pesquiera, of Sonora, Mexico, the old and practically abandoned workings of La Cananea mines.

These old workings Greene developed until they reached their present productive capacity of 100,000,000 pounds of copper annually. The panic year of 1907 forced Greene to give away the actual management of the Cananea properties, but he still maintained large interests here and was the owner of great cattle ranches in various parts of Mexico.

LOS ANGELES RESIDENT. LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Colonel W. C. Greene, who died at Cananea today was a resident of Los Angeles. He maintained a mansion on Western avenue and since 1907 had spent the greater portion of his time here with his wife and two daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Proctor of Hollywood, mother and father of Mrs. Greene, received a message from their daughter Thursday saying that Colonel Greene's condition was grave and asking them to go to Cananea. They left at once.

Mr. Wilkinson would not recommend for a position in the institution his own brother.

"I am exceedingly sorry that such an erroneous report was published, as I was particularly desirous of making it clearly known that so far as Mr. Chapman is concerned there was never any endeavor on his part to eliminate from management anything that could in the least degree have the appearance of 'doing politics.'" turned over to them and the police are defending the hotel.

A report is current that the police are sneaking the strikebreakers out of the hotel by way of the cellar, but if this is true the mob in front and at the sides of the building is not aware of the ruse. A train is being held for the strikebreakers.

Another call for police has been sent in from the hotel. The crowd is still clamoring for a sight of the strikebreakers. Another crowd has collected in front of the Rex hotel, on Walnut street, where about fifty strikebreakers are assembled in the lobby waiting for a chance to get to the train.

DES MOINES, Aug. 5.—The first attempt of the Des Moines City Railway to take its cars from its Second street barn failed at 9 o'clock when nearly 500 sympathizers threatened to attack the strikebreakers. The latter retreated to places of safety while the crowd jeered.

Two strikebreakers were jailed, charged with carrying concealed weapons.

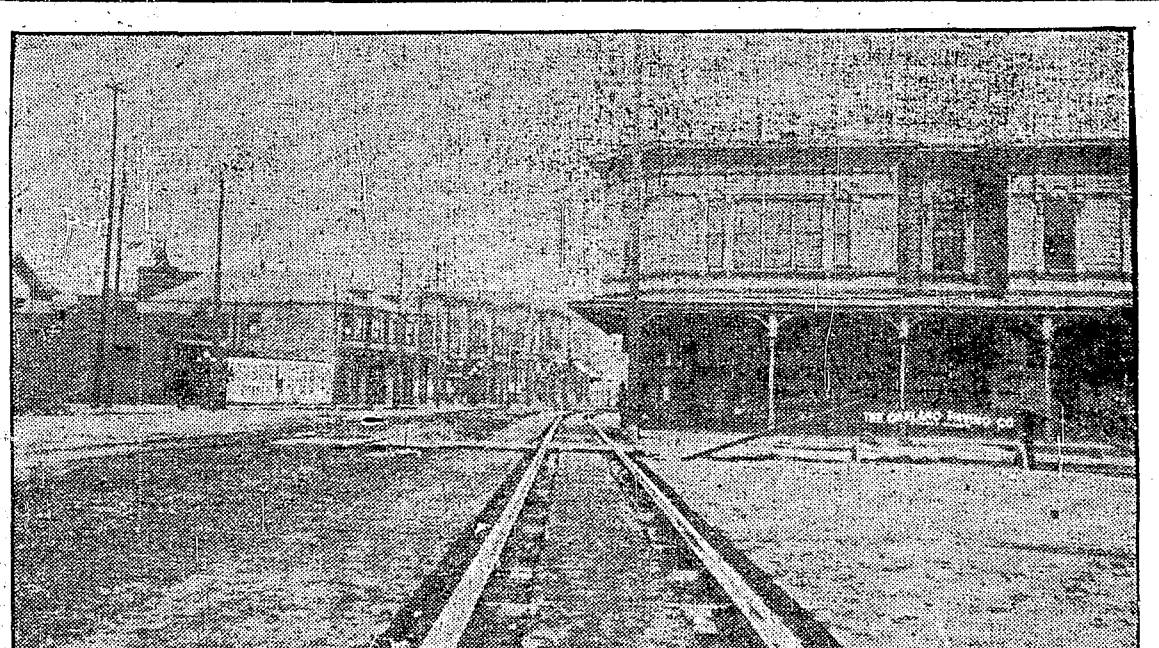

Rioting in the downtown streets, the burning in effigy of Manager J. R. Harigan and demonstrations against strikebreakers and Louis B. Christiansen of Chicago, their leader, attended the inauguration of the strike of nearly 500 employees of the railway. Five men, including a detective and a police officer, sustained injuries during the riots.

Traffic has been suspended on every line in the city, not a car having been moved since 1:45 o'clock this morning, when the union men walked out. There was no official car service last night and thousands of persons walked miles to their homes.

Strikebreakers were at the various barns of the company at 5 o'clock this morning.

VICTIM OF STRANGE ATTACK

Girl Knocked Senseless While Sitting in Chair, Tied and Gagged

Motive of Assault Was Revenge, Despite Robbery of House, Says Brother

A brutal attack, of which the cause is veiled in mystery, was reported to the local police this morning when D. L. Hayward of 5854 Fremont street informed the authorities that shortly after 7 o'clock last night his sister, Miss Hazel Hayward, was attacked in her home by an unidentified man, rendered unconscious by a blow on the head, and then bound hand and foot and left to lie on the floor until she was discovered an hour later by a passing friend. In the meantime the woman's assailant ransacked the house and made his escape. It is the belief of Hayward, however, that what appears on the surface to be robbery was inspired by a desire for revenge on the part of his wife, from whom he has recently secured a divorce, and who he claims, threatened to "get" his sister.

WOMAN WAS ALONE. The assault occurred when Miss Hayward was alone in the home of her brother, who is keeping house. She was sitting in the main room, which opens directly onto the outside porch, playing solitaire at a small table with her back to the door, which was unlocked. Without warning, she heard the door open, but thinking it was her brother, she did not turn around.

She was then seized from behind by a strange man, who exclaimed with an oath, "Now, I'll fix you!" and with a blow on the head he knocked her from her chair and onto the floor. She fell, striking her cheek, and only remembers having been dragged across the floor to the door of an adjoining room, when she lost consciousness.

Upon regaining her senses Miss Hayward found herself bound and gagged and lying in the center of the floor in the adjoining room, with a large rocking chair overturned above her. She has been in this position only a short time, when a friend, a man whose identity could not be learned, entered the house and released the woman. While the shock was great, Miss Hayward received no serious injuries and she waited the return of her brother about 2 o'clock this morning, who upon his return at once called a policeman, who later notified the central station.

MEAGER DESCRIPTION. The description Miss Hayward gives of her assailant is meager, owing to the fact that she was taken so completely by surprise. She describes him as at least six feet in height and thin. He wore a dark brown suit and a black cloth hat, which was pulled so far down over the face that she could not see it. He also wore a dark mustache, which was plainly a false one. So far as she knows, Miss Hayward says she has never seen the man before, but her view was so imperfect that she doubts her ability to identify him even if brought face to face with him.

An examination of the house showed that $15 in cash, which had been lying upon the table at which Miss Hayward was sitting had been taken, and the upper part of the house had been ransacked, although nothing had been taken, so far as is known. It is thought the man could not have been in the house more than three-quarters of an hour. The downstairs rooms in the house were also upset.

REVENGE, SAYS HAYWARD. The motive for the attack, Hayward, the woman's brother, declares, is retaliation. Hayward has recently been having a contest with his wife in the divorce courts, and yesterday was granted the custody of his eldest child, a young boy. His wife was to have given up the custody today, and Hayward believes that his wife got someone to make the attack on his sister, who had been keeping house for her brother since the trouble with the wife, and who the wife had made threats against, so Hayward declares.

The matter of the inquiry into the attack is in the hands of the police.

Many Lives Have Been Lost at Dangerous Railroad Point

"Death Curve," the south side of Seventh street, at the intersection of West and Market streets, is soon to be a thing of the past.

Its elimination is to be credited to the Southern Pacific company, which has purchased the property and the structure at that intersection and will raze the latter to the ground.

It was the extension of that structure over a part of Seventh street that prevented people from noticing the approach of trains on the Seventh street local, with the result that many have been crushed and mangled by the locomotive.

The building is a two-story structure. It extends southerly from Seventh street for a distance of about fifty feet. The ground floor has, for a generation, been used as a restaurant, while the upper story has served as a rooming house. More than half of the building extends across the path line of Seventh street as the latter extends westwardly from Market street, causing the railroad track to make a return curve to the north and east to clear the sidewalk on Seventh street east of West street.

$25,000 FOR STRUCTURE. In the rebuilding of its system on Seventh street, the Southern Pacific company decided to remove this menace by the purchase of the property and obstruction, by an expenditure of about $25,000. The reality and building were secured several months ago, but the case owner, N. Kujachich, on the first floor, declined to move because of a lease to the place which had yet ten months to run.

The company has finally purchased the lease, the purchase representing an outlay of $2500. It is reported, Kujachich has occupied the premises for the last sixteen years.

As soon as the building is demolished, part of the lot will be used to widen the street at that point and the southern parcel will be parked by the railroad company.

ROOSEVELT TAKES RESPONSIBILITY FOR STEEL TRUST DEAL IN 1907

Colonel Says That by His Action He Averted Widespread Panic Which Threatened the Country With Terrible Calamity at That Time

time he learned that two members of the United States Steel Corporation wished to see him in the morning. At breakfast next day he was informed that Judge Gary and H. C. Frick were waiting to see him. Bonaparte, then Attorney General, he continued, had not yet arrived from Baltimore.

"I sent a note to Secretary Root to come over," the former President read, and he arrived at the White House.

The conference was brief, Roosevelt explained, and later he wrote a note to Bonaparte, stating all the facts of the conference. Roosevelt then read to the committee the letter, afterward published in the Senate records, of the hearing on the Tennessee Coal and Iron case in 1909. The letter set forth how Frick and Gary had submitted the proposition for the sale of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company and how he had expressed the opinion that he did not wish to stand in the way of saving a financial panic. The firm that was in trouble, Roosevelt said, had not been mentioned.

TAKES RESPONSIBILITY.

Roosevelt then went into details about the serious financial conditions in New York and told how he had taken the responsibility to permit the transfer of the steel company and did it on his own initiative.

"It was a matter of common knowledge," he said, referring to banks and trust companies in New York, "that they held securities of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, which had no market value."

"It was necessary for me to act at once, before the stock exchange opened, or the transaction might prove useless."

WITHIN THE LAW.

He said he was satisfied that acquisition by the United States Steel Corporation of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company did not change the legal status of the company.

"Furthermore, I believed it would be for the public good," continued Roosevelt. "I answered Messrs. Gary and Frick that if matters were in the way, and the results proved that the act was a good one because the panic was stopped."

Roosevelt further said he had learned that the action was of great benefit to the people of the Birmingham district.

"I should have proved an unworthy public officer if I had not done as I did."

"If I had not acted at once," he continued, "in that extraordinary crisis, I should have been a mere title. In every such crisis the temptation of inaction is always there. There are always excuses for non-action. If a man is worth his salt he will give people in trouble the benefit of the doubt and act as the situation demands. If every step I took was as open as the day."

ASKS FOR DETAILS.

Chairman Stanley asked the former President for more details as to the conference at the White House and about the trust which was in trouble in New York at the time.

"I think they mentioned only one trust company," Roosevelt replied. "I had possibly been informed that there were two such companies and that the assets of a certain big stock brokerage company were threatened. They said they were fully convinced that this company would fail if the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company was not purchased. These securities had no market value at the moment, they said, and they stated they were willing to purchase that property for the United States Steel Corporation."

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The text of Colonel Roosevelt's statement today before the Congressional committee investigating the steel corporation follows:

"In the fall of 1907 there were severe financial disturbances and a financial stringency culminating in a panic which arose in New York and spread over the country. The damage actually done was great and the damage threatened was incalculable. Thanks largely to the action of the government, the panic was stopped before it became a frightful and nationwide calamity, a disaster fraught with untold misery and woe to all people. For the sake of the nation and to prevent an appalling disaster by checking the spread of the panic before it grew so that nothing could check it, and events moved with such speed that it was necessary to decide and act on the instant, as each successive crisis arose, if the decision and action were to accomplish anything. The Secretary of the Treasury took the lead in this matter, and I followed him, some by my direction."

HASTENS TO OFFICE.

"Late one evening I was informed that two representatives of the steel corporation wished to see me early the following morning, the precise object not being named. Next morning, while at breakfast I was informed that Messrs. Frick and Gary were waiting at the office, so I at once went over and as the Attorney General, Mr. Bonaparte, had not yet arrived from Baltimore, where he had been passing the night, I sent a message asking the Secretary of State, Mr. Root, who was a lawyer, to join us, which he did. Before the close of the interview and in the presence of the three gentlemen named I dictated a note to Mr. Bonaparte, setting forth exactly what Messrs. Frick and Gary had proposed, and exactly what I had answered, so that there might be no possible misunderstanding. This note was published in a Senate document while I was still President and is already spread on the minutes of your committee. It runs as follows:

"Shall I read, gentlemen?" The chairman—"Just as you like, Col. Roosevelt."

Roosevelt: "With your permission, I will read it."

The White House, Washington, Nov. 4, 1907.

My dear Mr. Attorney General: Judge E. H. Gary and Mr. H. C. Frick on behalf of the steel corporation have just called on me. They state that there is a certain business firm (the name of which I have not been told, but which is of real importance in New York business circles) which will undoubtedly fall in with my plan if I am prepared to take its assets as a majority of the securities of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company. Application has been made to the steel corporation to purchase the stock as the only means of saving a financial panic. Judge Gary and Mr. Frick informed me that as a mere business transaction they do not consider purchasing the stock, but that they are prepared to do so under ordinary circumstances. They would not consider purchasing the stock because it is little benefit from the purchase; that they are aware that the purchase will be used as a handle for attack upon them on the ground that they are striving to secure a monopoly of the business and prevent competition—not that this would represent what could honestly be said, but what might recklessly and untruthfully be said.

They further informed me that as a matter of fact, the policy of the steel corporation is to acquire more than sixty per cent of the steel properties, and that this policy is being carried out at this time. They stated that the steel corporation has slightly decreased so it is below the 60 per cent, and that it is now about 55 per cent. The interest of every responsible business man to try to prevent a panic and thereby save the country at this time, and that they are willing to go in this transaction which they would not otherwise go in because of the danger to the country. I have been urged on them by the combination of the most responsible bankers in New York to take action at this time, and that they are willing to go in this transaction which they would not otherwise go in because of the danger to the country. I have been urged on them by the combination of the most responsible bankers in New York to take action at this time, and that they are willing to go in this transaction which they would not otherwise go in because of the danger to the country.

"I should have proved an unworthy public officer if I had not done as I did."

"If I had not acted at once," he continued, "in that extraordinary crisis, I should have been a mere title. In every such crisis the temptation of inaction is always there. There are always excuses for non-action. If a man is worth his salt he will give people in trouble the benefit of the doubt and act as the situation demands. If every step I took was as open as the day."

TERRORE ROOSEVELT.

BONAPARTE AGREES.

"Mr. Bonaparte received this note in about an hour. That same morning he came over to acknowledge its receipt and said my answer was the only proper answer that could have been made, having regard both to the law and to the needs of the situation. He stated that the legal situation had been no more changed than the no sufficient ground existed for prosecuting the steel corporation."

"But I wish it distinctly understood that I acted purely on my own initiative and that responsibility for the act was solely mine."

"I was intimately acquainted with the situation in New York. The word 'panic' means fear, unreasoning fear; to stop a panic it is necessary to restore confidence and at the moment the so-called Morgan interests, which retained a full hold on the confidence of the people of New York, not only the business people, but the immense mass of men and women who owned small investments or had small savings in the bank and trust companies. Mr. Morgan and his associates were, of course, fighting hard to prevent the loss of confidence and the panic distrust from increasing to such a degree as to bring any other big financial institutions down, for this would probably have been followed by a general and probably world-wide crash."

ON FIGHTING LINE.

"The Knickerbocker Trust Company had already failed, and runs had begun or were threatening as regards two other big trust companies. These companies were now on the fighting line and it was the interest of every one to strengthen them in order that the situation might be saved. It was a matter of general knowledge and belief that they or the individuals prominent in them held the securities of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, which securities had no market value and were useless as a source of strength in the emergency. The steel corporation's securities, on the contrary, were immediately marketable, their great value being known and admitted all over the world, as the event showed."

FRICK'S PROPOSAL.

"The proposal of Messrs. Frick and Gary was that the steel corporation should at once acquire the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company and thereby subvert the assets of the three threatened institutions which, by the way, they did not name to me, securities of great and immediate value, for securities which at the moment were of no value. It was necessary for me to decide on the instant before the stock exchange opened, for the situation in New York was such that any hour might be vital and failure to act for even an hour might make all subsequent effort to act utterly useless. From the best information at my disposal I believed (and still believe) that the addition of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company property would only increase the proportion of the steel company's holdings by about 4 per cent, making them about 62 per cent instead of about 58 per cent of the total value in the country, an addition which by itself, in my judgment (concurring in, I may add, not only by the Attorney General, but by every competent lawyer with whom I talked), would not change the legal status of the steel corporation. Furthermore, I believed that the action was emphatically for the general good, that it offered the only chance for arresting the panic and that it would probably arrest the panic as it did."

"I answered, Messrs. Frick and Gary, as set forth in my published letter, that I did not deem it my duty to interfere—that is, to forbid the action which more than anything else in actual fact saved the situation. The result justified my judgment. The panic was stopped, public confidence in the solvency of the threatened institution being at once restored."

"Incidentally I may mention that when I was in Birmingham last spring, every man I met, without exception, who was competent to testify, informed me voluntarily that the results of the action taken had been of the utmost benefit to Birmingham. The results of the action I took were beneficial from every standpoint, and the action itself at the time when it was taken was vitally necessary to the welfare of the people of the United States."

ACTED WISELY, HE SAYS.

"In my judgment I would have been derelict in my duties, I would have shown myself a timid and unworthy public officer if, in that extraordinary crisis, I had not acted as I did act. In every such crisis the temptation to indecision, to non-action, is great, for excuses can always be found for non-action, and action means risk and the certainty of blame to the man who acts. But if the man is worth his salt he will do his duty, he will give the people the benefit of the doubt and action anyway which their interests demand and which is not affirmatively prohibited by law, unheeding the likelihood that he himself, when the crisis is over and the danger passed, will be assailed for what he has done."

"Every step I took in the matter was open as day and was known in detail at the moment to all the people. The press contained full accounts of the visit of Messrs. Frick and Gary, and heralded widely and with acclamation the results of that visit. At that time the relief and rejoicing over what had been done were well nigh universal. The danger was too imminent and too appalling for men to be willing to condemn those who were striving to save them from it. But I fully understood and expected that there was no danger, when the fear had been forgotten, attack would be made upon me."

"If I were on a sailboat I should not ordinarily meddle with any of the gear; but if a sudden squall struck us, and the main sheet jammed so that the boat threatened to capsize, I would unhesitatingly cut the main sheet, even though I were sure that the power, no matter how grateful to me it might be for having saved his life, would a few weeks later, when he had forgotten his danger and his fear, decide to sue me for the value of the cut rope."

Conference Held by Lumber Company, Unions and Mayor Mott.

As the result of a conference yesterday afternoon between representatives of the Sunset Lumber company, the labor unions and Mayor Mott, the city government has taken a hand in the trouble which has been going on for some time between the company and the striking teamsters, developing in the last few days into an armed warfare that seriously affected the peace of the city.

Under instructions from the mayor, Chief of Police A. Wilson this morning dispatched Captain J. F. Lynch and a company of sixteen officers to the lumber yards at First and Oak streets with orders to disarm all employees and such strikers as put in their appearance about the premises for the purpose of following the outgoing wagons and preventing the non-union drivers. It had been agreed yesterday by both sides that they would discontinue carrying weapons and the men accordingly turned them over to the yardmasters as they left on their deliveries.

Police officers mounted on bicycles followed the trucks in each instance for the purpose of preventing any possible outbreak and beyond a few threats nothing of a serious character occurred. A number of barges driven by union men and bearing banners setting forth the situation from their point of view, also followed in the wake of the lumber wagons.

BOTH SIDES COMPLAIN.

Interference in the situation on the part of the city authorities has finally been brought to bear through complaints made by both sides and in the belief that it would ultimately lead to serious consequences while innocent persons to the affair might suffer.

"There has been and will be absolutely no partiality shown to either side," said Mayor Mott in explaining the steps that have been taken. "Carrying weapons in the manner that it has been done recently is a menace to the city and has become intolerable. It not only threatens the peace but the good name of the city as well through its sinister influence. I have ordered that both parties lay down their arms absolutely and that both have agreed to do. It is our intention to protect all alike without fear or favor and the chief of police has his orders to act accordingly."

Grand Jury to Probe Charges That Earl Sought to Influence Council.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—The newspaper controversy which resulted yesterday in the indictment of Edwin T. Earl, proprietor of the Tribune and the Express, on the charge of having published an intercepted wireless message, took a new angle today when District Attorney Fredericks announced that the grand jury on Monday would begin an investigation of the allegations that Mr. Earl had sought to influence city councilmen in the fixing of telephone rates of the rival telephone company in Los Angeles, which have figured prominently in the acrimonious exchanges between the Tribune and Express on one side and the Times, Herald and Examiner on the other.

Mr. Earl, in a statement published today, declared that political opposition and business competition were behind all the proceedings.

Mr. Earl will be arraigned Tuesday on the indictment charging him with having published a wireless message which was printed with the avowed purpose of showing that General Harrison Gray Otis, owner of the Times, also controlled the Herald and that there was a newspaper combine in this city against the Tribune, which began publication July 4.

HANDS OF OLD WATCH POINT TO A FORTUNE

CHICO, Aug. 5.—Stanley Scott bought a watch at Susanville about a year ago. He recently sold the watch to George Ross, in the employ of the Los Molinos Land Company.

Ross found inside the watch a thin piece of paper, bearing on one side a sketch or map of part of Trinity county, one the other side a complete description of a gold mine in Trinity county. The map and description were by a Mr. Burch.

Mrs. Scott's grandfather's name was Burch and he mined in this part of Trinity county many years ago. At his death twelve years ago he told his son that he knew the location of a rich gold mine. Ross started last week to locate the mine, which is over eighty miles from the railroad.

TYRRELL OPENS LAW OFFICES IN THIS CITY

STATE SENATOR EDWARD J. TYRRELL.

State Senator Edward J. Tyrrell has entered upon the active practice of the law, having established an office in the Oakland Bank of Savings building.

Mayor Mott selected Tyrrell as his secretary when first taking office in April, 1908. Tyrrell studied law and in October, 1909, was admitted to practice by the appellate court.

Early in the Johnson campaign he allied himself with that element of the Republican party and announced himself as a candidate for state senator from the sixteenth district, which for many years has been represented by Senator Leavitt, who was also a candidate for reelection. After a lively campaign, in which Tyrrell showed surprising strength, he secured the nomination by a large majority and was later elected with practically no opposition.

ON COMMITTEES.

Tyrrell served on many important committees of the senate, being chairman of the banking committee. His efforts were very effective in securing the passage of the bill granting all tide lands to the city of Oakland, and he was also an important factor in securing the defeat of the "Greater San Francisco" bill.

Senator Tyrrell resigned as secretary to the mayor on December 31 of last year, when he was called to Sacramento by the convening of the legislature. Upon the adjournment of the session, Tyrrell devoted his time for many weeks managing Mayor Mott's successful campaign for reelection.

Senator Tyrrell is one of the best known of the younger men in this city, and his many friends confidently predict a successful and honorable career for him in his chosen profession.

BOURNE DEFENDS RECALL MEASURE

Government Not Now Truly Representative, Says Oregon Senator.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Under the political system which has been built up in this country, government is not truly representative and will not be until the people have the power to make it so, said Senator Bourne of Oregon, who spoke today in favor of the referendum and recall provisions of the Arizona constitution.

Bourne replied to the recent attack by Senator Sutherland of Utah on the advocates of initiative, referendum and recall.

"Senators are not arguments, ridicule is not logic," declared Bourne. "I answer the terms which Sutherland had applied to those who favor advanced methods of popular government.

"I believe in truly representative government," said the senator. "The initiative and referendum supercede no state legislature, and they merely provide the people a means of securing laws which legislatures refuse to enact and of defeating undesired laws which legislatures do enact. The technical work of drafting a measure should be performed by men of skill in that particular, but the people as a whole are the best judges of the principles involved and can be trusted to pass on the merits. The people of Arizona would better lose statehood than yield their right to control their state government."

As to the recall of judges, Senator Bourne said he saw no reason why a man who occupies a judicial position should be governed by laws and standards of public service different from those which apply to legislative or executive offices.

"A judge who will listen to popular clamor will also yield to the wishes and interests of a political boss," he said.

CITY TO BEAUTIFY WEST OAKLAND GROUNDS

Park Commission Agrees to Purchase Dirt Excavated From S. P. Tracks.

ELECTRICAL BUILDING GROUNDS TO BE SEEDED

Protest of Produce Men to Be Taken Up by the Officials.

A contract has been entered into between the Park Commission and the Hutchinson Construction Company by which the city is to purchase dirt excavated in the building of the Southern Pacific tracks over Eighteenth street for use in filling land adjacent to the new depot being constructed at the foot of Sixteenth street owned by the municipality and known as the West Oakland park. The land will be put in shape as rapidly as possible and beautified with trees and shrubs, the improvement providing for a long-felt want in that district.

Seeding of the plot around the new fire alarm and police telegraph building at Thirteenth and Oak streets, will be undertaken immediately under the direction of the commission, with the result that the lake shore on the west will soon become one of the beauty spots of the city.

Action is to be taken by the park commissioners on a petition recently presented by the produce men who have their stalls in the block surrounded by Eleventh, Twelfth, Harrison and Webster streets, who complain that vegetable peddlers are in the habit of using the streets adjacent to the market and littering the same with quantities of refuse.

WANT RESTRICTION.

Harrison square in that vicinity, they allege, is suffering from the abuse and in as much as the peddlers pay no license for the use of the frontage, they feel that they should be restricted.

The commissioners have given orders to have the ordinance pertaining to the matter strictly enforced in the future. Ordinance 2969, section 15, reads:

"No person shall expose or display any article for sale within parks without the permission of the commissioners."

The ordinance making it a misdemeanor to destroy shrubbery or flowers in the parks is also to be carefully observed from now on.

Secretary Henry Vogt of the commission declares that as a result of the produce men utilizing the park, it has become very unsightly and that a stop will be made to the practice.

BABY TOES HURT BY HEAVY LOAD

Four-Year-Old Frank Soars' Foot Crushed Under Wagon of Gravel.

A wagon loaded with gravel passed over the right foot of Frank Soars, 4 years old, late last evening, and he was taken to the Receiving hospital by his mother, Mrs. F. Soars of 668 East Fifteenth street, accompanied by Mrs. Silva, a neighbor, and Dr. R. T. Sutherland of 603 East Fourteenth street, with his tiny toes crushed almost to a pulp. Dr. Devine gave what temporary relief he could to the little sufferer and then had him transferred to the county infirmary for care and treatment.

The child was playing in the street in front of his home and in some manner slipped and fell under the wagon. The driver did not notice the boy until after he was hurt and the theory is that the child lost his footing when he tried to dodge the heavy wagon.

MOTT PLEADS FOR CITY BEAUTIFUL

Mayor Tells Progress Committee of Elaborate Plans to Improve Oakland.

Mayor Frank K. Mott addressed the Progress and Prosperity Committee last night on the plan of beautifying of Oakland and requested its support for the scheme.

Mayor Mott said that he hoped to have Oakland one of the most beautiful cities on the coast by 1915, and outlined the proposed improvement of Sixteenth street from the bay to De Fremery park. The construction of a fine boathouse on Lake Merritt and the opening of a canal from the lake to the bay for the use of boats was also touched upon by the mayor.

The mayor definitely announced that work on the $500,000 auditorium would be commenced by the first of next year, and that every effort would be made to have it completed when the Panama-Pacific Exposition opened.

"To make Oakland a truly beautiful city will take more money than is now in the treasury," said the mayor, "but I hope, through the efforts of you gentlemen and other public-spirited citizens, to secure the necessary funds to carry out the work."

The committee endorsed the plans and will appoint a committee to confer with the Oakland Park Commission to devise ways and means to provide money for parks.

BUSY DAYS FOR HUMANE WORKERS

Many Ill Treated Horses Protected From Cruel Drivers By Officers.

Seven hundred and forty-five animals were involved in the work of the special humane officers regularly employed by the Oakland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals of Alameda county, according to statements presented at the July meeting of the directors of the association. Twenty-five were suffering from severe lameness, 24 unfit for work were suspended from labor, 11 were badly galled 14 had ill-fitting or no shoes, 28 had injured eyes due to flapping blinders, 72 drivers or owners of animals were warned to give the animals in their charge more humane treatment; one dog was found mutilated and one poisoned; three bulls were made for the animals ambulance. There were three arrests for cruelty to animals.

In San Leandro a man was arrested for brutally overdriving a livery horse. He was found guilty by a jury. The judge presiding at the trial believed that the offender's ill-treatment of the animal warranted a fine of $50, which he imposed.

The manager of an Oakland livery stable was arrested and fined for overdriving and allowing to be driven a lame horse, and the foreman of a large grading company was brought into court for using in the heavy work of grading, a mule with a galled shoulder. The humane officers have been obliged to order out of harness a number of horses unable to do their work because of crippled legs or feet, galled shoulders or backs, sickness or old age. Several were condemned and were mercifully destroyed.

The Sunday mounted patrol inaugurated by the society last summer in the interest, principally, of livery horses who happened to fall into the hands of brutal drivers, has been active this summer season. Many reckless drivers are found along the roads and thoroughfares of the suburban districts, and numbers of horses have been relieved who were suffering from overdriving and thirst. The patrol has become a permanent feature of the society's activities.

The directors of the association will enforce to the letter, during the coming winter, the law relating to the proper sheltering of animals from the rain and cold winds. The directors also intend to start a campaign of humane education among the school children ere long.

BURGLARS SECURE $66 WORTH OF GUNS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—The jewelry store of V. Garcia, 1329 Powell street, was broken into by burglars yesterday and valuables to the amount of $66 taken. ## Here is a dessert that was suggested by a society woman of Berkeley—

It is a combination that has been used as a dessert at some of the largest and most successful social functions that have ever been held in Berkeley.

In suggesting it she asked us to refrain from publishing her name, but we can assure our readers that it is a dessert of surprising merit, and we do not wonder at the fact that it has become so popular at the dinner gatherings of Berkeley's very best people.

"The first time I used this combination I was embarrassed by not having enough," said the party who suggested the dessert to Mr. Lehnhardt. "Almost every guest at the table accepted a second plate, with the result that I had to acknowledge a shortage in the kitchen, which they joked about for a long time. I have used it repeatedly since then, and it always made a great success of every dinner. A number of my friends have also adopted the combination, and it was in such good favor with our set that I thought you would like to try it as a special."

The combination consists of

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM
APRICOT WATER ICE
VANILLA ICE CREAM

We have never made a finer brick and are sure it will make as great a success as a "special" as the one made at the social functions in Berkeley, where it was first used.

If you call Sunday and carry the brick home—50c each. If we deliver it, packed in ice—80c each.

Every brick contains enough for 8 or 9 people.

FAKE ILLNESS TO GET FREE TRAVEL

Government Uncovers Arcadian Scheme to Get Gratis Trips to Europe.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—A unique method of getting trips to Europe at the expense of the United States government was revealed yesterday by the arrest of Karonik D. Garabedian, an Armenian, and the recital of his alleged scheme in a warrant for conspiracy issued by Assistant United States District Attorney Chas. H. Daines. Another Armenian, said to be implicated in the alleged conspiracy, is being sought.

The plan was Arcadian in its simplicity. It consisted in simulating some disease or other affliction, such as would render the presence of the person in this country a violation of the immigration laws. Thereupon, the government would insist upon the deportation of the person, paying all expenses involved. Garabedian, according to the district attorney, pretended to be crazy, and was confined for thirty-three days in the observation ward of the city hospital without results, and confessed the deception.

BABY FALLS BUT PARENTS SUFFER

Tumble From Windmill Fails to Injure One-Year-Old Boy.

Heath Smith, the one-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smith of 415 Sixth street, fell off the window-sill to the floor last evening and struck on his head with such force that it almost put his parents out of commission.

He shouted and laughed lustily, but Mr. and Mrs. Smith were so beside themselves that they both ran with the baby to the Receiving hospital. Dr. Devine could find no injury and finally succeeded in convincing the parents that their fright was groundless.

PUTS BLAME ON MOTHER-IN-LAW

E. C. Rosin in Cross Complaint Says Wife's Relatives Broke Up Home.

Elaire V. Rosin's complaint for a divorce from Emil C. Rosin, a confectioner of Berkeley, on the ground of extreme cruelty, which was filed in the superior court about ten days ago, has prompted the husband not only to deny all of the allegations made by Mrs. Rosin in answer to the answer and cross-complaint, but also to file a counter-complaint. The answer and cross-complaint were filed in the office of County Clerk Cook under seal, but the fact has developed that the candy man sets forth in his instrument that his wife's mother, sister and other relatives were instrumental in influencing Mrs. Rosin to leave home and that they have been the direct cause of all the Rosins' marital troubles. In this complaint it may be stated that about four years ago Mrs. Rosin started society of the university city by using her slipper upon a woman whom she accused of friendliness with her husband.

Rosin charges that during the last two years his wife has been so much away from home that she is unfit for the care of their minor children. His cross-complaint clearly shows that he has absolutely no use for his mother-in-law or she for him, and that Mrs. Rosin, against his request, insisted that her mother should visit her at long intervals, just to annoy her husband.

Attorney B. B. Robinson appears as counsel for Rosin, and in speaking of the case today said:

"I am a close friend of Rosin and personally I think this divorce matter is all a mistake because Rosin and his wife have five small minor children. To separate man and wife under such circumstances would be too bad. Indeed, and this case certainly does seem to be one where relatives are interfering and destroying a home. It all appears to me that Mrs. Rosin needs some good motherly advice."

ARRESTED FOR TAKING COCKTAIL ON TRAIN

He was turned over to the authorities at Marshall and fined.

MELROSE CLUB TO MEET EACH MONTH

Boosters Issue Circular Setting Forth Achievements of Organization.

100 NEW MEMBERS TO JOIN IMPROVERS

900 Voters in District Are Invited to Aid Work of Improvement.

MELROSE, Aug. 5.—As a feature of the membership campaign being carried on by the Melrose Improvement Club, the following circular is being distributed in every part of this portion of the annexed district:

"During the month of March, 1911, a consolidation of the various improvement clubs located in Melrose was effected under the name of the Melrose Improvement Club, and before the end of May had signed up street work aggregating some $50,000. This work provides for the curbing, guttering, grading and oil macadamizing of Forty-eighth avenue, Melrose avenue, Fiftieth avenue, Fifty-first avenue, Congress avenue and Vicksburg street, and the placing of a concrete sewer on Vicksburg street with concrete culverts on Congress and Vicksburg streets. We obtained more electric lights for the lower Melrose district, more police protection, and host cut by our energetic and timely protest, we obtained an up-to-date double track electric railway with a ten-minute headway direct to Twelfth and Broadway. This road will be running inside of two years, and take the whole district, centering at High street and continuing along Ignacio street to its terminus at Trask avenue. This means increased property valuation to every property owner in the district, and will immeasurably improve the car service between Melrose and Oakland proper. All this work has been done by a few of our public spirited members, and all the club asks in return is your earnest support. In union there is strength, and we want you all for members. We have arranged to have a regular meeting on the first Monday of each month at 8 o'clock p. m. at Souza's Hall. The dues are only 25 cents per month, and such residents as cannot attend may pay their dues to any of the following members:

EPISCOPAL CHURCH CORNERSTONE LAID

Rev. J. A. Emery Officiates at Ceremonies Before Elmhurst Parishioners.

ELMHURST, Aug. 5.—Ceremonies connected with the laying of the cornerstone of the new Episcopal church at this place were conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the archdeacon of the diocese, the Rev. Many persons present in Episcopal church circles in San Francisco and on this side of the bay were present.

The edifice will be a handsome structure, the site being on Ninety-sixth avenue and Plymouth street.

THROWN FROM BICYCLE.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that 98 per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce or his able staff, have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if it were applied to the treatment of hundreds only. But when the record treated to the number of more than half-a-million women, and practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult us by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without cost to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

SEWER BONDS TO BE LIVE ISSUE

Mass Meeting Tonight Under Auspices of Many Improvement Clubs.

UPPER FRUITVALE, Aug. 5.—A mass meeting will be held tonight in Maple hall, on Maple avenue and School street, to protest against the recent decision of the Supreme Court whereby the possibility of the annexed district getting a sewer system was knocked on the head by the invalidating of the sewer bond issue, under the auspices of the Taxpayers' Laurel Grove, Hopkins Street, Wood Road and Allendale Improvement clubs.

The advisability of dropping the entire bond issue proceedings and acting instead under the Vrooman act will be considered. The citizens and members of the various improvement clubs who have been in conference with Mayor Frank K. Mott and City Attorney Ben Woolner will be present and report the result of the meeting. From all appearances the gathering will be one of the largest ever held in this district, as the citizens are thoroughly aroused over the gravity of the sewerage conditions which is menacing the public health.

Married Teachers and Suffrage Principles.

The old question, shall married women teach in the public schools? is again under discussion. It touches elbows with the question of the political equality of the sexes, and is therefore incidentally related to the suffrage issue.

Forbidding married women to teach in the public schools is not a provision of law, but a rule made by boards of education. Any law denying married women the right to teach would be unconstitutional, but the courts have upheld rules to that effect made by boards of education on the ground that they are proper regulation. Thus married women can be put under a disability which the law does not authorize by indirection and by bodies not vested with the law-making power. No legislative body would think of putting such a disability into the law, and the courts would nullify it if it were enacted as law. But local boards can make rules which operate as specifically as law, and the courts will uphold such rules on the theory that they are wholesome regulations.

The paradox is an interesting one—all the more interesting because some of the strongest advocates of sex equality in citizenship stoutly oppose granting it as a bread-and-butter proposition which affects, not politics, but the free right of women to public employment for which they are eminently fitted.

Denying married women the right to teach in the public schools is based upon the theory that the wife is the weaker vessel and that the husband should be the breadwinner of the family. It is reinforced by the belief, which is quite general, that single women should be given the preference in the school department. But the chief objection to allowing married women to teach is that a wife should not go out as a wage-earner for the family, but should leave that duty to the husband; it is an objection based on one hand upon the fear that husbands will put the burden of supporting the family upon the wife and on the other hand, upon a fear that the wife who goes out to teach will neglect her household duties and thus disorganize the social fabric, which is built upon the family and the mutual obligations resting upon husband and wife.

That the rule prohibiting married women from teaching does prevent domestic abuses is quite true. But it also inflicts undeserved hardship on many deserving women, and frequently deprives the school department of the services of teachers of experience and proved ability. But where is the boasted equality of the sexes in an arrangement which denies a married woman the same rights that are freely accorded to all men and to unmarried women?

These remarks are not intended as an argument against the rule closing the doors of the teaching profession to married women, but as an inquiry into the ethics of a suffrage movement which sanctions putting a serious disability upon a large class of women. The rule in question discourages matrimony with women teachers, many of whom are held for years hung up, like Mahomet's coffin, between the alternative of wifehood and the loss of position. It prompts teachers to contract secret marriages and practice other subterfuges that tend to lower self-respect and demoralize character. For the motives which prompt the rule we have the highest respect; they are sincere and honorable, but we very much doubt if the rule confers any substantial benefit on society or is really conducive to the welfare of the schools. That it contradicts the avowed purpose of the suffrage advocates is self-evident.

The wool dealers of San Francisco are organizing to oppose the passage of the bill revising the woolen schedule of the tariff. They have waked up a little late. The bill has gone to conference and will undoubtedly be agreed to by both houses. Only the veto of the President can now prevent it becoming a law. Senator Works voted for it.

"It is to be hoped that the site for the Panama Exposition will be in sight," says the Grass Valley Union. Several sites will be in sight. The exposition sites will envelop San Francisco as the Great Wall envelops China—it is as long as the pension roll and has as many divisions as a joint snake. But why should the editor of our Grass Valley contemporary grumble? The old places on Market street and the Barbary Coast will do for him.

Californians can make up their minds to it that the tariff on the products of other States cannot be reduced and the duties on California products allowed to stand. For that reason the Congressional representatives from this State who vote for tariff reductions are voting to bring about a reduction of the duties which protect California's industries.

What the Tariff Has Accomplished.

Much is said in condemnation of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, but little is ever said about what it has accomplished. The confession that it is not perfect and can be improved—what tariff law is or ever was perfect?—is taken to mean that it is wholly bad and has had no beneficial results.

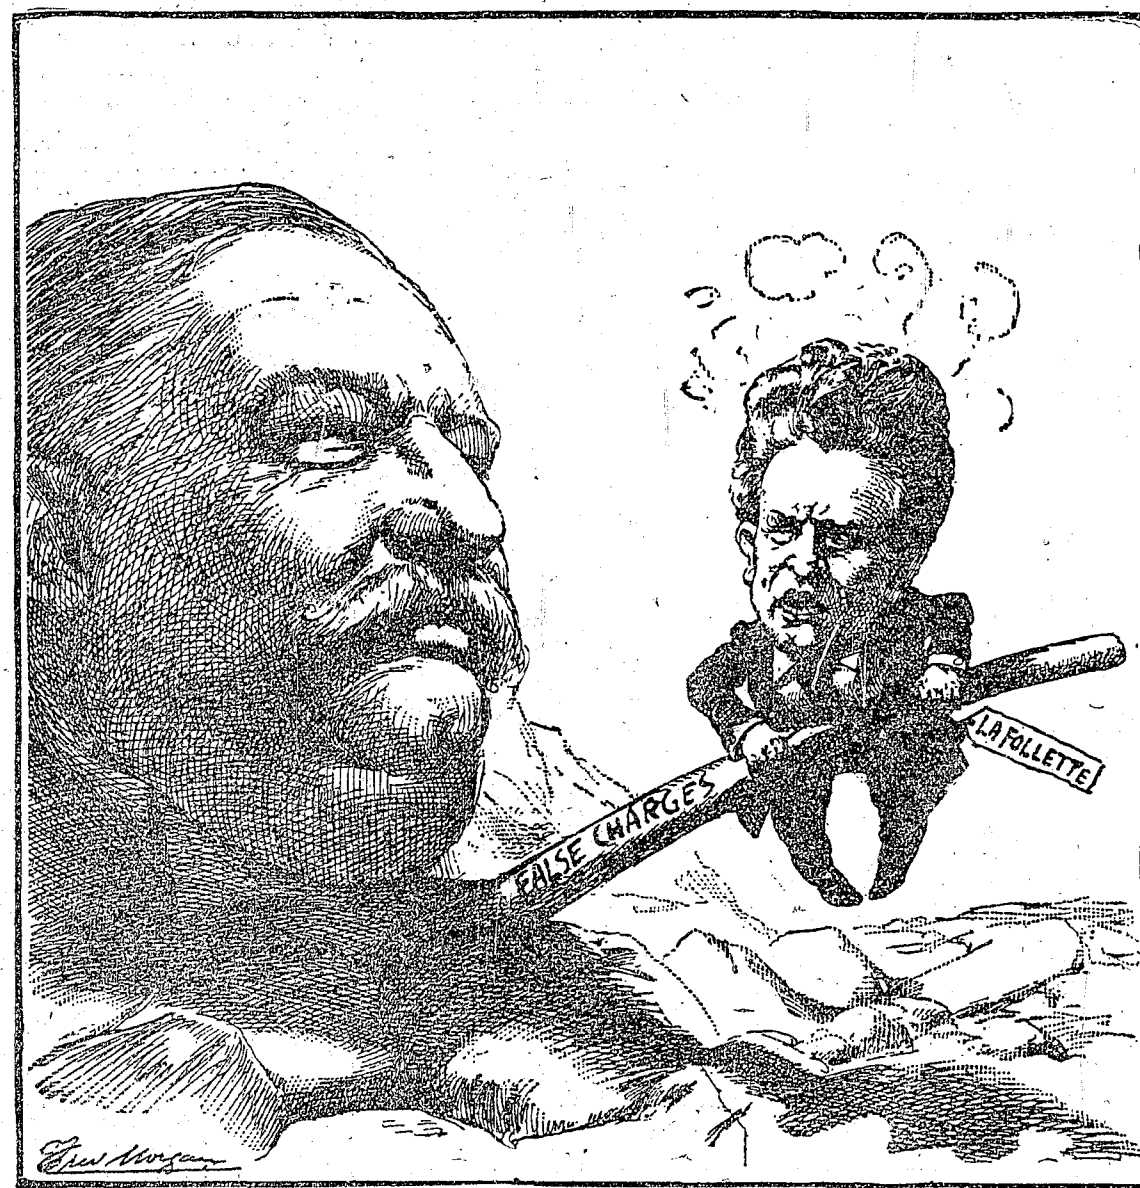

Yet American industries have thrived under this law. Never were the farmers so prosperous nor the wage scale higher. Never was the general scale of comfort on such a high level as it is today in the United States.

Under the operation of the Payne-Aldrich law a deficit has been transformed into a surplus. Our exports have enormously expanded and the trade balance in favor of this country heavily increased. Our foreign trade has broadened with the expansion of domestic trade. Never before did American manufactures have so wide a market; never did the products of American mills and looms go abroad in such increasing quantities or reach so many markets. If anybody doubts this let him study the trade returns compiled by the Bureau of Statistics.

It is easy to point out minor defects in the law, but it is not so easy to dismiss the results it has achieved. A revenue deficiency has been supplied, domestic industry fostered and encouraged, foreign trade expanded and the wages of labor advanced. Taken singly or as a whole these results are gratifying and worthy of praise. There are spots on the sun, but nobody proposes to smash the sun because of them nor to reconstruct the entire solar system on a different hypothesis. There is no more reason for smashing the tariff because of its minor defects; but a vast number of people have never been able to discern the folly of burning the barn down to get rid of the rats.

It is a full barn that attracts rats, and when the barn is full we can stand a few rats. When the barn is empty there are no rats; but its emptiness brings so many troubles that we forget all about the rats. It is that way with the protective tariff. When the rats are banished by burning the barn we realize that in getting rid of a nuisance we have destroyed the fabric of our national prosperity.

TRYING TO MAKE POLITICAL CAPITAL

—PHILADELPHIA ENQUIRER.

Vardaman of Mississippi—A Recrudescence

Former Governor James K. Vardaman, who made his campaign in an ox-cart, has carried the primary election in Mississippi by a large majority and will succeed Mr. Percy in the Senate. Vardaman is of the Ben Tillman type of demagogue, or rather he is today what Tillman was when he entered the Senate. He is a man of considerable talent and some attractive qualities, but he is an anachronism—a survival of the Barnwell Rhett-Bob Toombs-McDuffie school of statesmanship. His ideas of the constitution and the status of the negro belong to the ante-bellum period, while his theory of government is Populistic. He believes in prohibition and disfranchising the Negroes, and is opposed to compulsory education for the whites and any education at all for the blacks. He also wears his hair long and believes foreigners should not be permitted to own land in the United States. Vardaman will be a picturesque figure in the Senate, and a good foil for Heyburn of Idaho—both of them are fifty years behind the age, instructive only as object lessons. They are examples of arrested political intelligence, oblivious to accomplished facts and the logic of circumstance. They were born too late and have never been able to catch up with the procession of modern progress. What is to be expected in Congress from a man who wears his hair long like a Cavalier at the court of Charles I and goes campaigning in an ox-cart, and who appeals to the passions and prejudices of the most ignorant element of the population? He is as much out of date as Peter the Hermit would be and as accessible to modern thought as the bronze statue of old Frederick the Great.

CHINESE POSTOFFICE

The recent transfer of the Chinese postal system to the ministry of communications draws attention to the rapid growth of the service and to what may well be called its romantic side. Li Ching Fang, who was not long ago the Chinese Minister to England, is the titular head, but Theophile Pory, a Frenchman who has taken the lead in developing the work, remains as the chief executive. The decree ordering the transfer places all postal employees on the same basis as to pay, pensions and furloughs with those of the customs service.

China's postoffice system as now constituted was provided for by an imperial decree of March 20, 1895, but those best versed in its history say that no real attempt at organization was made until after the Boxer troubles had been suppressed. In 1901 there were only 176 offices open; last year there were 5322 in efficient operation. The number of pieces mailed in 1901 was 10,500,000; in 1910 it was 335,000,000. In 1901 there were handled 128,000 parcels; in 1910 the number had increased to 3,750,000.

These figures express the development of the system from one point of view; geographically the extension is equally remarkable. Postoffices have been opened from the Yellow Sea to Kashgar and from the Amur to the boundaries of Tonkin. Kokonor on the frontier of Tibet is said to have an excellent service and from Honan-fu a continuous chain of couriers are running day and night through Tung Kuan, a town on the Yellow River where three provinces meet, to the Great Wall and out into Chinese Turkestan. The route to Kashgar is said to be the longest courier route in the world. In Lhasa there is a postoffice in charge of a Chinese, one Teng Wei-ping, who speaks French and English. Thence courier lines extend to Yaktung on the border of Sykkim and to Gyantse and Shigatse and other places hardly discoverable on the maps, while it is being pushed on 930 miles to a terminus at Chiamdo.

From Hankow to Chengtu, the capital of Szechuan, and on to Tachien-tu, 1350 miles, there is a courier route, and it is to be extended 350 miles to Batang, near the Tibet boundary. Letters travel from Hankow to Chengtu in twelve days. This route will be linked up with Chiamdo, 357 miles further on, making a circuit. New York Sun.

FERDINAND AND THE SOBRANGE

Although Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria was insulted by the radical Deputies at the opening of the Sobranje a couple of weeks ago, the body as a whole is quite ready to sanction the monarch's plans for increasing his personal power, especially in regard to foreign affairs. The aim of Ferdinand is to get the treaty making power into his own hands without obligation to report to the legislature. It will be remembered that as Premier Malinoff, the head of the Liberal party, would not consent to this he was forced out of office a couple of months ago and the leader of the conservatives, M. Guchoff, was made Premier on the eve of the general elections.

The time for the change was so chosen because in the Balkan States the party in power always wins. The present occasion is no exception. Guchoff, who had not a corporal's guard in the last Chamber, finds himself backed by about 405 votes out of 426 in the present one. The opposition, besides, is divided into five factions, the Stamboulovists having but four seats, the Radicals four, the Liberals five, the Democrats two and the Socialists six. The Government is supported by a combination of Zankovists, Nationalists and Agrarians. The late Prime Minister Malinoff has not even a seat in the Chamber.

The principal business of the Sobranje at the present time is to revise the Constitution to accord with the new conditions arising from the transformation of the State from a principality nominally dependent on Turkey into an independent kingdom. When this necessary proceeding was first mooted the intimations were that the changes would be only formal; in fact verbal, but now it is not concealed that an article will be introduced giving the King the unrestricted treaty making power. There seems to be no doubt about its adoption.

Ferdinand is credited with a purpose of forming a strong alliance with Austria, out of which he hopes for large increase of territory whenever the smashup of the Young Turk movement and the consequent partition of the Ottoman dominions in Europe shall supervene.

Center of Population

The Census Bureau's calculations now bring out the fact that the population center has not only moved further westward in the ten years, but has gone 31 miles beyond the center of 1900; from 1890 to 1900 it moved westward only fourteen miles. This in the face of the facts given was hardly to be expected. A small eastward shifting of the center for the first time in the country's history was rather to be anticipated. The explanation lies in the large growth of the Pacific States during the ten years, and in the fact that distance figures in calculating the population center. While each person is assumed to have the same weight, those more distant from the assumed center of population weigh more in determining its location than those who are less distant.

Thus it appears in the calculations that twelve persons in San Francisco exert as much pressure at the pivotal point as forty persons in Boston. The Pacific Coast people sit at the longer end of the teeterboard, and the addition there of one person more than overcomes the addition of two at the shorter end, and compels a westward movement of the fulcrum to restore the equilibrium. Accordingly the population center differs from what is called the median point or the point through which pass the lines dividing the population equally north and south and equally east and west. It seems apparent that the median point has moved eastward in the past decade. If the center of population has not—Springfield Republican.

Unenthroned Thomas

There are some names which seem peculiarly suited to royalty: Louis, for instance, has a kingly sound; Francis, George, Henry, in both spellings; Charles, William, Edward and James, all have served their turn. Johns there have been, and Stephens. I remember a Robert in Sicily and a Peter in Russia and Serbia. Frederick has often worn the crown and royal honors are even now paid to Ferdinand in Bulgaria. But was there ever, anywhere, a king named Thomas? Oscars and even Haakens ascend the dais, but ever through all the centuries Thomas remains the subject, sometimes struggling up to bishopric or an earldom, but never attaining the crown. Nicholas was the imperial purple; Godfrey lord it over Jerusalem; Alexis struts in ermine; Alexanders far forth to conquest; Julius and Leo don the triple crown, but Thomas, poor plebeian Thomas, has never a crown to his name. Now tell me, you who are wise in the occult influence of names, what is the matter with Tom?—The Idler.

SNOW AND THE SNOW LINE

In some mountain ranges the depth of each winter's snowfall is astonishing. Sixty feet per annum is common in the middle mountain zones of the Sierras, the Cascades and the Selkirk.

At St. Bernard, in the Alps, the annual deposit is from 25 to 30 feet. According to a writer in the Independent, this is twice the depth that annually crowns the Rocky Mountains.

However, the snowfall in the Rocky Mountains varies greatly in different localities. Near Crested Butte, in Colorado, at an altitude of 10,000 feet, the annual fall commonly is more than 40 feet deep. The State of Massachusetts appears to have an average annual fall of five feet.

Although the climate of the earth has really not changed for centuries, some locality occasionally receives a snow of surprising and sometimes a deadly depth. Much of New England appears to have been mantled with the "Great Snow of 1717."

The Ute Indians have a tradition of a very snowy winter that came less than a century ago. For weeks the snow lay "four ponies deep" and during this time much of the big game perished. Any place upon which snow falls may expect occasionally a snow of extraordinary depth.

Latitude and altitude are the principal factors which determine the melting of snow. However, local influences may greatly modify these. Snow is likely to melt slowly in a place that has heavy precipitation, and it will melt rapidly in a locality that is swept by dry winds.

The effect of local influences may be illustrated by citing results in New England and Montana. With equal latitude, Montana having a mile greater altitude, can commonly retain a snow only one-third of the time of New England, simply because it is swept by dry winds. In Montana the Chinook wind occasionally removes a foot or more of snow in a single day. Naturally the Indians named the Chinook the "snow eater."

Thus the snow line, the realm of perpetual snow, is chiefly determined by latitude, altitude, annual precipitation, winds and some minor factors. In the Rocky Mountains this line is broken and difficult to approximately determine; it is, however, above the altitude of 13,000 feet.

In the Alps it is definite at 9000 feet, while around Puget Sound it drops below 8000 feet. Advancing northward along the Pacific Coast this line descends lower and lower, until in the realm of the furthest north perpetual snows dot the tundras only a few feet above the surface of the sea.—Portland Telegram.

WARNING FOR NOVELISTS

The old question, "What's in a name?" has been answered by an English jury which has just awarded a verdict of $375 against Douglas Webster, a gifted London novelist, who recently wrote a story in which one of the characters is known as Miss Chester. In the story Miss Chester was a money lender who urged people to pick up scandalous tidbits about families and capitalize them. It was in more senses than one a capital story.

Not long after the novel became current the author, much to his surprise, was sued by one Irene Chester, a "lady" novelist (whatever that may be) and a money lender in Manchester who complained because the public had identified her as the character in the story. She said that she had been subjected to no end of ridicule and annoyance and was losing her trade. The book had a preface stating that the characters were fictitious and Mr. Webster swore that he never heard of Irene.

For Mr. Webster is not the first author to be thus harried, even the gentle Nathaniel Hawthorne being called to account by the Pyncheon family because he had used that surname in a way that displeased some Pyncheons of whom Hawthorne never had heard.

The author's remedy is to select such unusual names as Estelle Sarcophagivian, or Oswald Tubatubanning, for his characters or following the Dickens custom of using a single name such as "Quilp."—Boston Globe.

THE HAI CHI

The Hai Chi will anchor in the Hudson somewhere between Seventy-second and One Hundredth streets, and will be with us, according to the best information obtainable, for a week or ten days. Her officers will be looked after by American naval officers, and the Chinese blue-jackets will be royally entertained by their fellow-countrymen of this city. The cruiser has about 25 officers and 425 men.

In appearance the Hai Chi resembles a large extent the American cruisers New Orleans and Albany. Like them she has two funnels, and the armaments are about equal. The Hai Chi, however, displaces nearly 1000 tons more than does either the Albany or the New Orleans. This is the kind of vessel New Yorkers will see when the Hai Chi anchors in the Hudson: A cruiser of 4300 tons displacement, with two military masts, fore and aft, both fitted with conning towers; a rather low freeboard aft and a sharp, knife-like stem, which resembles that of the American liner St. Paul. The armament consists of two 8-inch guns mounted in turrets, ten 4.7-inch guns, twelve 3-pounders, three 1-pounders, and six Maxim quick-firing. She is fitted with five torpedo tubes, all above water, and although she is more than 13 years old, her engines are of sufficient power to drive her 24 knots an hour if necessary.

The Hai Chi was built in England, and is a sister of the ill-fated Hai Ten, which was wrecked and lost in 1904.—New York Times.

GOSSIP FROM SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

Their Beauty Not Skin Deep

The recent revelations concerning the practices of so-called beauty specialists show that society least of all is victimized by the unlicensed dermatologists. From an authoritative source I have learned that the lists of patients of these pseudo-specialists were carefully scanned by the detectives searching for Miss Lig, and one searcher was impressed by the fact that not a single accredited society name was on any of the lists.

We are constantly informed via the Sunday supplements that society women in search of the peach bloom are skinned and baked and frozen and paraffined, but never before in San Francisco have we realized how the "beauty" magazines have been playing with women, and play right back into the hands of the "beauty specialists." Girls read of the processes by which famous society and professional women improve on nature and combat the ravages of time, and they evidently accept most of this fiction as the truth, and wistfully envy the glorious opportunities of the wealthy. Here is made-to-order material for a beauty parlor, for sooner or later some of these deluded readers will wonder that way just to see how much it really does cost, and the consequence is that one ready-made too heavy to bear, and it cost a lovely young life.

As a matter of fact, society women of this generation know that beauty is not skin deep. Of course, they all fluff their faces with powder, and most of them make a few passes with the pink rabbit's foot just for luck; and some of them put a few golden highlights on brown hair, or discipline gray hair, but they none of them are gullible as the unfortunates might believe. The society woman has wealth, as a rule, or at least a competency, and among other things, that brings expert medical advice for herself and her children. She worships beauty perhaps, but she knows that it cannot be acquired by lotions applied to the skin, and dangerous tampering with externals. The diet, bath, breathing, exercise and general hygiene for the child counteracts the effects of the social whirl on her system by the correctives of a summer spent in a healthful outdoor exercise.

The other Sunday a minister stood up in the pulpit and proclaimed that society women were responsible for this dangerous quest of beauty, which allows so many "beauty parlors" to thrive. But if there is one class of women who do not put themselves into the hands of quacks, it is the women of the smart set. A little investigation on the part of the minister would have convinced him that it is usually the working girl, befuddled by newspaper accounts of the artificial creation of beauty, who is the victim as long as the quack can touch her pocket nerve.

They were discussing this at the Burlingame Country Club the other day. The girls had just come in from the golf links, and were refreshing themselves with iced tea. "Why, mother was just saying that she doesn't know what this generation is coming to," laughed one girl. "She says that we don't hold a complexion sacred any more, and she fusses so about my freckles, but I tell her they'll disappear in town this winter, and cold creams and things like that would only make the skin a better target for the sun anyway."

"Of course," agreed the others, and one girl supplemented the verdict with: "Oh, who cares about pink and white complexions nowadays, anyway? I'd rather put up a good, stiff game than a delicate complexion."

And that's the spirit of the society age.—News Letter.

Mirza Ali-Kuli Kahn With Us

I noticed the genial countenance of the celebrated Mirza Ali-Kuli Khan in the lobby of the Fairmont the other day. He is here with his son for a vacation. It is about two years since Mirza last honored us with his presence. His former visit was a notable one. He gave lectures which proved conclusively to his hearers that Omar Khayyam had been a spiritualized sufi and society attendant. But as society hadn't the remotest idea what sufiism meant and hadn't read his Omar for many years, society nodded in its comfortable chairs at the St. Francis where the lectures were given and even, in some instances, went to sleep. The distinguished Persian from Washington also signaled that visit by proclaiming the greatness of Carmel in an article contributed to the Carmel "Whirl," an unique publication of the literary colony. "I believe that California will be the center of artistic endeavors in America," said Mirza; "also that Carmel will play the leading part in the coming age of art. Nature herself has created this destiny for Carmel and California." It is not often, even at Carmel, that a man who has inside information from Nature speaks so freely and "the vision of Mirza" excited something of a sensation. It would be interesting to learn whether he considers Carmel any closer to her destiny than she was two years ago.—Town Talk.

Mirza's American Wife

Mirza's American wife has not accompanied him, on his present visit to the West. She is from all accounts a very interesting and charming woman and she helped her Persian husband to a pleasant place in Washington society. Kull Khan was Miss Florence Reed, the daughter of a Lynn shoe manufacturer. Their courtship began in Boston where they were drawn together by their common belief in Babism. What is Babism? Well, it is a kind of pantheism professed by the Persian sect of the Babi which was founded some half dozen decades ago by Seyd Mohammed Ali. Babism is one of the fads of eastern society and has many adherents among the temperamental leaders of the New York and Washington drawing rooms and studios. Miss Reed's family objected to the attachment and the Persian and his romantic admirer eloped and married. They went to Persia where Madame Kull Khan so impressed the Court at Teheran that she was made Moravesh-Sultaneh, which is said to be something worth while. Later they went to Washington where the Babists took them up and listened to Mirza's lectures. When the Persian Minister left the city, the daughter of the Persian revolution, Mirza was left in charge of the ministry and he has been a big man ever since.—Town Talk.

Mrs. Caswell's Views.

When Mrs. George A. Caswell, the Los Angeles anti-suffragist, is not talking on the public platform against the suffragettes, she is telling the reporters in interviews why women do not need and should not have the ballot. She declares that women of property in California are wronged under the law. Women of property in California are exempted from supporting worthless husbands, but husbands must support their wives, even if they don't know enough to boil water without burning it. Poor men are liable for the debt of their extravagant wives, while rich wives are not liable for the debts of their indigent husbands. Husbands must pay alimony; wives never. Mrs. Caswell's arguments against suffragettes would fill a book, much less a newspaper column. She declares that women want the ballot chiefly because they haven't it, and it cannot be obtained by going around to the grocery store and buying it for ten cents. She says "the same restlessness is leaving our kitchens empty and yawning for cooks, and is filling the business offices with half-educated girls." The female politician will be worse than the male politician, Mrs. Caswell thinks, if California should afflict womanhood with the boon of equal suffrage. She prays to heaven and to the male voters that they will not give women the ballot.—The Wasp.

Plan Visit to Honolulu

A number of San Franciscans are planning trips to Honolulu, the first contingent to leave including the Henry Foster Duttons and their guest, Mrs. Worthington Ames. Before her marriage, Mrs. Ames visited the islands en route to the Orient, and she has always expressed a desire to return. The Duttons have made many jaunts to the Southern Seas, and are enthusiastic about having Mrs. Ames along on this quest of tropical delights. John Lawson, of Burlingame, is planning to dine in the woods near Menlo the evening before the ship sets sail, and though it was called a picnic dinner, all the approved accessories of an indoor entertainment were furnished in addition to the delight of a wooded dining room. The souvenirs created a great deal of mirth and were significant of possible adventures on sea and land. All of the dinner guests and many more friends were down at the steamer to speed happily this merry trio on their way, which will not lead into this harbor again for two months.—News Letter.

Message of Princess

But in the case of the Campbell family, rumor was so busy performing cardiac tricks on the Princess David Kawanakoa that it permitted her sister, Miss Beatrice, to spell out almost the last letter of a romance before the public was taken into the confidence of a syllable. Miss Beatrice Campbell spent the greater part of last winter with the Princess David, and the stunning Hawaiian beauty with Mrs. Malcolm Henry made a trio that riveted attention everywhere. Somehow, Miss Beatrice was not so scrupulously netted by the match-makers, and as a result, there were not so many unscrupulous predictions about her matrimonial intentions. The gossip engaged Princess David and Mrs. Henry to this, that and the other eligible, and each rumor in turn had its cap thrown over the windmills. Possibly Miss Beatrice escaped because all the time she really was engaged to George Beckley, of the Beckley family that is intimately connected with Hawaiian industry and finance.

The marriage was solemnized on Monday of this week at St. Mary's Cathedral, over three hundred guests witnessing the ceremony. The bride was given away by her step-father, Colonel Parker, and she made a beautiful and unusual picture in her bridal robes. Her dress was a rich combination of lace and satin and embroidery, and like all conventional bridal gowns was fashioned with a train that gave a regal significance to the costume. Instead of a wedding veil, this bride chose to wear a huge white picture hat that was a shower of white paradise aigrettes. The bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Shingle, and the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Osborne of Fresno, and Miss Mariana Pond of Berkeley, likewise wore large be-plumed hats, and lent a pretty touch of color to the picture with pink and blue gowns. The young couple plan to spend part of their time right here in San Francisco, and they have both have many friends, the bride having gone to a fashionable school across the bay, and the groom to Stanford.—News Letter.

Starr Jordan's Memory.

When David Starr Jordan was the president of Indiana University he used to pride himself on knowing all the students by name. Like Themistocles and Julius Caesar who are reputed to have known the names of all their soldiers, Starr Jordan would exhibit his proficiency on all occasions with extreme delight. Recently an Indiana man who had been a student under Jordan in the Hoosier college stopped him on the campus at Stanford and asked, "Doctor Jordan, do you make a point of knowing the names of all your students?" The president of Stanford paused, passed a hand reflectively over his chin and answered slowly: "No, sir, I have given that up. I found that every time I remembered the name of a student I forgot the name of a fish."—Town Talk.

An Educated Hen.

The white leghorn hen owned by John Grohan, of Baltaluma, which recently helped him build a chicken coop by holding the nails in its beak after he had smashed his finger, has learned a new trick. When Grohan gets home after his day's work, he is very fond of sitting on the porch and enjoying his pipe. As soon as Grohan sits in his easy chair it is a signal for the hen to go into the house, get his bag of tobacco and pipe, and take them to him. After Grohan has filled his pipe he puts a match in the hen's beak and she scratches it across the floor, and then he lights his pipe. Grohan also expects to teach the hen to put out the match.—The Wasp.

Bell-boy Tells of Fame

What is fame, asks the wise man, and the bell-boy replies. It happened so at the St. Francis Hotel, where most every thing happens. And, talking of happenings, who can forget Raymond Duncan, who would act for real money and live musically, according to the ethics of ancient Greece. Only when Duncan was here, he did not quite make a living at it. He is coming to try again. But this time he has sent his special envoy ahead, and the envoy is registered at the St. Francis Hotel. His name is George Papageorge—which is certainly quite a name, by George!—and his business is to boost. Among others, he has letters to Jack London, who wrote some things, and also made a reputation plagiarizing. Anyway, he is supposed to be famous, and firmly believes he is. But bell-boys have to be tipped to a thing. This one didn't know Raymond Duncan either, who believes that every mother should begin with him by teaching her offspring the A B C's of his faith. But mothers of the land are apparently very careless. This is what the envoy said to the bell-boy, and the bell-boy said to the envoy:

"Can you tell me where Jack London lives?" asked the latter. "I am a disciple of the great Raymond Duncan, and I have a letter to London."

"I know where London is," replied the lad, "but not Jack. A letter will travel to London by the mail."

The envoy smiled pityingly. "It is Jack London, the author, I mean."

The boy scratched his head. "I don't seem to be able to place him," he said, "but he may be staying on Third street."

"He wrote 'The Call of the Wild,'" supplied the envoy. "He was once a tramp, but he is now a great writer."

But the bell-boy had had enough. "Oh, go on," he said. "If he wrote any 'call of the wild' he must have been a bell-boy. I suppose you are going to act it for him."—News Letter.

Miss Rivas' Adventure

Mrs. Earl Cummings went to Los Angeles to greet her sister, Miss Amelia Rivas on the young lady's arrival at the family home in the South after an exciting experience in the Mexican revolution. Miss Rivas was held a captive by insurgents for three days in Culiacan where she was visiting her brother, when the town was sacked by insurgents. General de Morelos occupied the house where she was, and she was the only one of the California girls' capture in the revolution. It was effected by means of an underground tunnel beneath the two houses and Miss Rivas was taken through it by her captors to the de Morelos headquarters, where she remained three days. She was treated with respect and was held to secure the insurgents against hostilities from the residents of the district.

Miss Rivas is a beautiful young woman of the Spanish type like her sister, Mrs. Cummings, and took a prominent part in the San Francisco Kilmess last winter.—Town Talk.

The Dance Espagnole.

When it came to "La Carmencita" at the Santa Barbara, Mrs. Emma Kethley appeared in the title role, as a belle of Seville did some wonderfully effective dancing. The audience was really more interested in deciding whether the cigarettes the young women held in their finger-tips, as they danced the gay measure, were real or imitation. They were the real article, and lighted. Mrs. Kethley shone forth again in "The Merry Widow" chorus, Miss Vera Grauert taking the part of Sonia, Princess of Marsovia, and W. W. Mayo Newhall Jr. one of the most dashing gentlemen of the court. Well, it is all over for the year, and there are many who wish it were done again. Romance resulting from the rehearsals, the daily proximity—go ask the sex nymphs that rear their jealous heads to watch the flirtations behind the screen of vines along the Potter porches. Engagements? There is a hint that several are to be announced when the "season" ends, and they will be due to the dance of nations at the Santa Barbara beach.—The Wasp.

How Shocking

According to the Santa Barbara Independent, that rival bathing resort, Santa Monica, "is planning on a bathing censorship. The immodest character of the bathing suits worn as well as the actions of the bathers has become so shocking," says our Santa Barbara correspondent, "that it is injuring the business of the resort, so it is said, hence the movement for a censor." It is noteworthy that the public conscience of Santa Monica is not quickened by innate virtue, but fears loss of lucre. We have not heard from any Santa Monica or Los Angeles editor about the bathing suits or capers in the summer sea at Santa Barbara.—The Wasp.

Woman's Immemorial Failing.

Woman's passion to improve on the face which nature gave her by submitting to painful and dangerous operations at the hands of beauty doctors, is no new thing. The world has had its unhappy Mary Ives from the earliest ages of which we possess records. The beauty doctors of Babylon and Nineveh, of Carthage and Alexandria, of Jerusalem and Athens, and Rome operated in very much the same way as the beauty doctors who pursue their faking careers today. In the early ages of the Church the Fathers launched denunciations at them, but with little effect. These men appeal to a vanity that is deep-rooted in countless silly women and they cannot be curbed by the men of religion. The classical writers have many references to the having wrought by the beauty doctors. Juvenal, for instance, has these lines in that terrible sixth satire of his:

But tell me yet, this thing thus daubed
And oiled,
Thus polished, plastered, baked by turns
And boiled,
Thus with pomatums, ointments, lacerated
Or,
Is it a face, Urtilidus, or a sore?

These lines portray a face that has been submitted to the very operation which drove Mary Ives into the slough of despair.—Town Talk.

A Reunion of Honoluluans

A reunion of Honolulu people was held at the wedding of Beatrice Campbell and George Beckley last Wednesday that made the reception seem like a family celebration. Colonel Sam Parker, step-father of the bride, was in his most jovial mood and there was no stint of champagne at the wedding dinner at the St. Francis. Toasts were drunk to bride and groom and to the absent Princess David, Kawanakoa, sister of the bride, who is lingering in Europe after the coronation. The status quo Mrs. Voorhies Henry who is her intimate friend, was present, looking blonde and beautiful. Mr. Whiting of Berkeley, wife of Admiral Whiting, U. S. N., retired, was there with her sister. They were two of the noted family of Aloha girls in Honolulu, both married into the navy. Mrs. Whiting is part Chinese and part Hawaiian and is a pretty woman who might be taken for a daughter of sunny Italy. Walter McFarland and his wife were prominent Honoluluans present. Mrs. McFarland is a leader of society in the islands, her husband being one of the well known family of McFarlands who own coffee plantations in the islands. One of them married Mrs. Henry Foster Dutton's sister, Miss Dunn. Mrs. A. D. Tenny and her daughter, residents of Honolulu, who spend their summers in San Francisco, were there with Captain and Mrs. Matson of the Matson steamship line, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shingle who were best man and matron of honor respectively at the islands. For the event, Mrs. Shingle is one of the handsome Campbell girls, step-daughter of Colonel Parker, but she is not as well known in San Francisco as Princess David and the bride of Wednesday's wedding. The groom attended college here where he was nicknamed "Hilo" Beckley. He is wealthy, and with the bride's share of the Campbell millions they are well supplied with this world's goods. The bride, by the way, brought not only her gown from Paris but the handsome costumes worn by her bridesmaids as well. One was of shell pink satin and the other of blue, embellished with gold embroidery. The floral parasols to match which the attendants carried, were Parisian in their daintiness. The bride also carried one. The embezzled handles were twined with flowers, and the flaring lace parasols half closed were filled with orchids and roses.—Town Talk.

Mansion is Unique

One of the oddest yet most attractive homes in San Francisco is that of Robert G. Hanford, which was built on the site of the old James G. Fair property on Fine street. Although the house is called a bungalow, it bears little resemblance to that style of architecture. The feature of the home is the marvelous Pompeian court in the center of the home. It resembles a bit of ancient Greece or Rome transplanted to San Francisco. Although it is not quite completed as yet, the work is being rushed. The ceiling of the court is of glass. The walls are finished in harmonious tones of red and brown, and artistic Pompeian decorations are seen on every hand. The electric lights resemble the old Pompeian oil lamps, and add the finishing touch of ancient splendor to the artistic spot. In the center is a fountain in decorative Pompeian effect, and when the home is complete water lilies and goldfish will be placed therein. Pillars in Italian marble separate the court from the loggia. There is also a beautiful Roman bath. This is constructed with stone and lined with tiles. A feature of the front of the house is the fireplace, twelve feet across, and built of gray stone. Comfort is the object sought, and the house would indicate that this has been achieved. The Hanfords will occupy the new residence this winter. Mrs. Hanford was the charming Gabrielle Guillard. Her sister recently became the wife of a naval officer.—The Wasp.

Young Shortridge On the Stage

The Shortridge family is represented on the professional stage after all. When Vesta Shortridge Brugulere announced that she was in training for her debut at the Alcazar, we all sat up and agreed that it would be decidedly worth while to see the temperamental daughter of the irrepressible sage of San Jose behind the footlights. And mightily disappointed were we when she suddenly scampered off to the East to engage once more in matrimony. But now our spirits are revived. For Maurice Shortridge, the brother of Vesta, is a member of the Alcazar company. The conqueror of Claire Payne is an actor. To be precise, he has been an actor for three weeks. He first took the boards in "Sapho," appeared again in "Arsene Lupin," and is now heightening the ensemble effects of "Pierre of the Plains." How he managed to remain an actor for three weeks without betraying the secret of his histrionic ambition to the newspapers is beyond me. His name has been displayed in the programs. In the annals of Del Monte it is writ among the names of those who are mighty with their fists. It is a name which Claire Payne remembers and shivers at the memory. But still Maurice Shortridge has been raising that standard of histrionism, elevating the stage in Sutter street for three weeks, and the press agent hasn't got busy.—Town Talk.

A Baron's Quest in California.

Baron William de Geer von Tuffens de Geer von Rynhuysen is headed for Santa Barbara for the purpose of locating a number of estates where he and his close friends from Holland may live their own lives in a sort of colony arrangement, with hunting, coursing, etc., as their amusement and literature as their purpose. Now, wouldn't it seem to you that Carmel ought to appeal to the Dutch noblemen, who have an ancestral estate near Utrecht, Holland, which has been in the family for nearly one thousand years? He stands high at court, and has been an ambassador in many a quest. He was commissioned from Holland to the International and Universal World Exhibition at Lieke, 1905, where he was decorated by the late Leopold, King of Belgium. No one seems to know whether the gentleman is married or not.—The Wasp.

San Francisco's New Boulevard

No feature of the composite site so happily chosen for the exposition seems to appeal more strongly to the popular imagination than that of the great boulevard system whereby the several parts of the site are to be made one. It appears to be the public idea and desire that this system shall at the same time bring together parts of the city heretofore separated by distance in some degree, but chiefly by topography. This, probably, is the idea, and the desire of the exposition directors.

Except for a casual and remote approach at the foot of Van Ness avenue, and for the comparatively private Pacific road running to a point above Fort Winfield Scott, the bay side of San Francisco is to be seen in nearby comfort and cleanliness only from the water. It is one of the best scenic assets of a city eminently picturesque in natural setting. The exposition boulevards will make it available and useful at last. That alone is a permanent gain sufficient to justify the selection of a site in other respects less desirable.

The boulevard part of the exposition plan will make it a world's fair much more interesting to the motorist and to the motor industry than any ever held, here or abroad. The commodious and expeditious way to see the San Francisco exposition will be by automobile. That way visitors will have a maximum of sight-seeing at a minimum of fatigue. That way they will get the most and the best of the view aside from the spectacles and attractions of the great show itself. In 1915 the question with the motorist coming from the interior or from the East will not be what touring he can do aside from the exposition to justify bringing along his car. He will realize that his own car will make him independent of rail facilities and indifferent to the weariness that goes with looking over an exposition, now matter how compact. Undoubtedly there will be every inducement on the part of the exposition managers and through private enterprise to encourage the bringing of motor cars to the fair. The motor driving visitor will be a distinct factor in the transportation side of the show as a possible investor, and he will also be worthy of the attention of the interior. Good roads will unfailingly lure him out into the State, just as the exposition boulevards will induce him to use his own conveyance for the journey of delight along the bay and ocean shore and through the grounds.

But there will be no limitation of the boulevard system to the use and pleasure of the motor-owning few. The opportunities it affords will call for a great improvement upon existing local conditions as to hired motor vehicles. The rent service will be worked out and perfected so as to offer much better accommodations at much more attractive figures than the taxi facilities will be enormous. The express delivery, and the auto-bus will be given a better chance than it has ever had.—News Letter.

He Was a Traveler

In Judge Shortall's court, the other morning, a man was brought before the magistrate to answer to the charge of drunkenness and vagrancy. Said the policeman:

"Sure, your Honor, he was tryin' to clane up Kearny street with himself as a mop. An' when I asked him why he didn't go home, he said he was so busy tryin' to make the town go dry he didn't have time. So I to myself: 'He's one of them dangerous anarchists,' and locked him up."

The Judge turned to the prisoner before him. "What," said he, "is your name?"

"John Jones," answered the man.

"And where," asked the Judge, "do you live?"

Jones looked his disgust. "Where do I live?" he repeated; "why, I don't live—live—very long in any place. Why, Judge, I've traveled from pole to pole—hic—hic—"

But here the Judge rudely interrupted. "What," asked he, "is your occupation?"

"Linenam," answered the prisoner. And they do say he got thirty days for making Josh mit the Judge.—News Letter.

Refused Knighthood.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coleman of Montecito are entertaining distinguished company in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Hennen Jennings of Washington, D. C., who, while really visiting their relatives have taken a suite at the Potter for themselves and their large staff of men and maids. Mr. Jennings installed nearly all the machinery in the Rand, South Africa, and later returned to that country, the express desire of the Rothschilds to replace the complicated workings and to give expert advice on the mining restoration which followed the Boer war, where so many British properties were destroyed. He has been the commercial man of the Rothschilds and the De Beers syndicate for many years and has been connected with some of the largest diamond and gold mining deals ever brought to a successful issue. Mr. Jennings, a typical American of the old school, refused knighthood at the hands of the late Queen Victoria for services in behalf of British interests in South Africa. The Jennings are being entertained in the lavish way of Montecito when they like the person and admire the personality.—The Wasp.

He Hobnobbed With the Great.

Out on Market street, in front of a vacant lot, a venerable old man has a little stand where the stranger may apply for information about cheap lodging houses. Just how the vending of such information suffices to support this old man I am at a loss to explain; perhaps it doesn't. There was a time, however, when he didn't want for money. He is Henry V. Blatchford, an English barrister, and he used to be a noted lecturer. He knew most of the great men of his prime and when he lectured about Tennyson, Hugo, Zola and others, telling the intimate stories of them which the literary love to hear of their favorites, great crowds gathered to hear him. But Blatchford has fallen on evil days.—Town Talk.

Two Chums to Marry Sailors

Two navy engagements, one of which was announced this week, will take two girls who have been chums since their school days into the service about the same time. Miss Lolita Burling, whose engagement to Paymaster Gearing was announced several months ago will be a bride in November, and a few weeks after her friend Miss Janet Klink will marry Lieutenant Irvine. Since Miss Burling has lived in the southland with her parents she has often visited Miss Klink, and the two girls frequently made trips to Mare Island for dances and social doings at the navy yard. It was these trips that fostered the romance of Miss Burling and young Gearing which resulted in their engagement at Coronado where the young lady was visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Evelyn Page, wife of Dr. Page, U. S. N., retired. Miss Klink met her betrothed at Bremerton while on a visit to the Yorktown. When his ship was ordered south he renewed his friendship with the fair San Francisco maid.—Town Talk.

Fruitvale Insects On a Toot.

"Buz-z-hic-buz-z-z-z-hic."

That is the song of the flies, hornets and bumblebees in Fruitvale these days and here is why.

From a hotel near a car line, beer trickles out of the drain leading into an open ditch. The flies, hornets and bumblebees found this ditch Monday and almost immediately all insect pledges of sobriety went by the board. After taking drinks enough to render the ordinary winged creature unconscious, the intoxicated fraternity set out in drunken rage to punish persons who have sought to exterminate them. The honest folk of Fruitvale declare that the flies, hornets and bumblebees, after imbibing freely, attack them most furiously and laugh a drunken insect laugh whenever a fit hand slaps out in their direction. It is also stated that when temperance advocates are stung or bitten by the shameless insects the victims become inebriated with alcohol. At least some wives of Fruitvale are receiving that explanation.—The Wasp.

Crockers Entertain at Country Home.

There have been gay times at the Henry I. Crocker's beautiful Cloverdale summer residence, Miss Marian Crocker, the daughter of the house, has proved herself a charming hostess. Society is already planning for the brilliant dance at which she will make her debut this winter. She will be one of the many San Francisco buds that are to make their formal bow to society before the end of the present year. Miss Crocker has had as her guests recently Miss Corinne de Due and Miss Elva de Due. These three girls are close friends and form a bewitching trio when seen together. They are all fond of sports and are excellent horsewomen.—The Wasp.

A Dire Threat

Two charming young girls who have unusually good looks and something of a genius for dress, were chatting in great animation over their tea cups at the St. Francis the other day when two young matrons entered and sat down at a nearby table. These matrons were brought up in the same set with the two unmarried girls and yet when the latter saluted them, they returned stony stares. The two matrons never so embarrassingly when it comes from those who have no good reason to administer it. But in this instance the two girls were no whit dismayed. "Just wait," said one of them loud enough to be overheard by the two exclusive matrons, "just wait till we marry our two millionaires, and we'll make them eat dust." A fearsome threat. Naturally their friends are gossiping about the identity of the two millionaires.—Town Talk.

Interesting Engagement

An interesting engagement announcement of the week confirms the rumor that Miss Anna Weller had found Cupid's arrow tipped by a brass button, and Lieutenant Earl Shipp, U. S. N., is the dashing young officer who has won this charming young daughter of California. In this particular case, it is not stretching a figure of speech, for Miss Weller does belong to a family with roots that spread so deep in the history of California that it is impossible to tell where personal history leaves off and State history begins. Her grandfather was the late John Weller, who was a United States Senator from California in the '60s when war rode postilion with the nation. Later he was United States Minister to Mexico. Miss Weller's maternal grandmother, Mrs. John McMullin, one of the notable grand dames in San Francisco, and a dominant personality in the smart set for many decades.

Miss Weller's parents, Judge and Mrs. Charles Weller, announced the engagement at a dinner party in their Pacific avenue home, the other night, and already engagement gifts are pouring in, for it is not to be a protracted engagement. Lieutenant Shipp has been appointed an instructor at Annapolis, a position much to the liking of the young couple, so the wedding will be celebrated early next month. Unfortunately, the groom-elect is not in town to share in the pre-marriage festivities and preparations, but instead is en route on his ship, the USS Albatross, with the torpedo flotilla. Miss Weller's cousin, Miss Eliza, both McMullin, who made her debut at the same time at a handsome reception given by her grandmother, Mrs. John McMullin, will be maid of honor at the wedding. Rumor has it that Miss McMullin, herself, will, before many moons, take a leading role in such a ceremony. Most of the engagement rumors that have been playing hide-and-seek have been brought to the post. Miss Janet Klink, like her most intimate friend, Miss Lolita Burling, has confessed to a permanent interest in the navy. Mr. and Mrs. George T. Klink have announced that Miss Janet will become the bride of Lieutenant Robert Irvine, who is an officer on the Yorktown, which news only confirms a rumor that has long been considered accredited to the Court of Veracity.—News Letter.

Ruef and Henry P. Dalton

San Quentin is a world all to itself. It is possessed of a psychology stranger and of greater interest, undoubtedly, than that furnished by any other human conglomeration of its numbers in the State. Ranging all the way from brutality to genius, everything is enclosed there, and all beholding each other. It breaks hearts, and it becomes a home. It crushes ambition to the ground with every hope and dream that pertains to the soul, and, in other cases, it furnishes rest from the world and self-effacement. Its heart-beats and its emotions are countless, its tragedies fill the atmosphere; but in spite of every favorable condition, souls still live there—aye, and dream. The capacity of human nature is infinite. Its resources go below Hell and above Heaven, and such, too, its hopes. Over in the big prison, Abe Ruef teaches Sunday school. The other day this dregs opened to admit Dalton of Oakland. Knowing each other, it was only natural that, in meeting, the two should endeavor to show nonchalance and courage. This is what was actually said:

"Dalton," tendered Ruef, "you are invited to attend my Sunday-school class."

"Thanks," responded Dalton, almost merrily, "but how could I hope to reach Heaven through such a Ruef?"—News Letter.

Keeler to Circle the Globe.

I am told that Charles Keeler, the Berkeley "pote," is going to take his poetic locks, his soulful expression and his "pomes" to the far corners of the earth. He is going to make a trip round the world and pay his expenses by reciting his verses to the elect of all nations. "Twill be an interesting journey and, I trust, not an unsuccessful one. Homer who is sometimes regarded as a greater poet than our Charles, used to wander from place to place, reciting his epic lines for the delectation of the groundlings. Virgil tempted the sea on a journey which aroused the apprehensions of stay-at-home Horace. Dante strayed from his beloved Florence when they made it too hot for him there. Shakespeare is supposed to have traveled during those mysterious years between his departure from Stratford and his first known activities in London. Milton went abroad to see the "autumnal leaves that strew the brooks in Vallombrosa." So why shouldn't Charles Keeler follow these distinguished examples. I sincerely hope foreign nations won't mistake him for Raymond Duncan disguised as a "pote."—Town Talk.

Another Naval Engagement

A third engagement of the week will take another local belle into the navy, when Miss Ann Weller, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Charles Weller becomes the bride of Lieutenant Earl Shipp, U. S. N., in September. Miss Weller is the grand-daughter of Mrs. John McMullin and a cousin of Miss Eliza McMullin and is also related to John Hays Hammond. Her paternal grandfather was the late Senator John Weller. She is a handsome girl and has been much sought since her debut. Lieutenant Shipp has been ordered to Annapolis but the marriage will take place prior to his departure for the Naval Academy where he will be instructor. It will be a small house wedding because of the death of several relatives of the Weller family in the past few months. The late Pay Inspector Stanton of the navy whose wife was Miss Anna Maynard was a half-brother of Judge Weller. The death of Mr. Hays, husband of Mrs. Weller's sister, was a recent bereavement. The late Mrs. Francis J. Heney was the third daughter of Mrs. John McMullin and aunt of Miss Weller.—Town Talk.

THE MEDDLER

A FOREIGN writer, commenting on American conditions, remarked recently that among women of the smart set the telephone had driven out the writing desk. That was quite enough to prove to the women of the aforesaid smart set that during his stay in America he had not been of the socially elect.

Few drawing-rooms now are without a perfectly equipped writing desk, and the mistress of the home is as careful of her stationery as she is of her household linen. Dainty monogrammed paper is her delight, and if she is entitled to a crest, so much the better. Or sometimes it is a cabalistic design which means much to her. There are lovely Moorish geometrical designs which mean much when interpreted.

The same is true of East Indian historic art: just a few lines carry a whole sentiment. And Chinese historic art is full of good luck symbols.

STYLES IN STATIONERY.
And the stationery follows the latest style in tones—just now the latter is of pale fawn gray. In every well appointed home there is a perfectly equipped desk in the guest room, and desks are to be found in many rooms of the house. They are so inviting, that writing is no longer a duty but a pleasure, and writing has come to be a fine art.

It is a charming characteristic of the American woman of today. She knows how to write a letter that expresses herself, and it is perfectly true that one's character shines forth in a letter, in the most decided fashion. Handwriting is our most original gift and the American woman has a way of expressing herself most frankly, with much spontaneity and originality. She writes a charming letter. Indeed her good literary style is amazing. Often she has it, not because of her good education, but in spite of it. For we have not come to anything final in our teaching of English in our schools and universities. The American woman's literary ability must be regarded as a racial achievement or inheritance, rather than as an educational result. In France they have made a great deal of the letters of a few famous women—of Madame de Staël, of Madame Recamier, of Madame de Sevigne, and they have been held up as models of literary excellence. In America we would think comparatively little of them, because in our own land so many of our women write equally well.

In one's daily mail there is usually a letter unique in its thought and expression. For in our country many women write exceedingly well. There is a sort of stiffness, a conventional air about an English woman's letter. It is a great contrast to the easy style, characteristic of American women. For one thing there is no apparent effort. Women write as they talk. A living personality free, untrammelled, finds its reflection in their letters. American women make the best conversationalists in the world. They are also among the best letter writers. It is most amazing, in the busy pressure of life, that they find time to write so many sweet, kind letters.

USE OF POST CARDS.

If they are away, from over the seas come many a post card, bearing a loving thought from mountain or sea shore. "I wish you were here with us"—sometimes means a great deal. It is true that "absence makes the heart grow fonder," but the letter writing goes far deeper than that. If one's friend is abroad, one travels with her most of the way, for a shower of post cards marks her progress through the Old World.

In the daily round of life, the letter writing is well managed. If a friend is ill, a dainty note accompanies the bunch of flowers which finds its way to her room. If a young girl's engagement is announced, she prizes all her life the letters that come to her from her friends, bearing glad wishes for her happiness. The thoughtful letter brings often a gift to start the bride-elect on her way.

There are letters to welcome the little infant that comes to the household. In his serene unconsciousness, he knows little about it, but his mother is made happy by gifts sent to him, and her room is a bower of bloom, every blossom representing the happy thought of a friend. When sorrow's wings brush the doorway, the American woman pauses in her own day's work. The sorrow of her friend is hers also. She does not give sympathy only, though indeed that would be sincere. But she makes the sorrow her own too. Her shoulders bear part of her friend's burden. A heartache is her heritage as well. And she knows just how to say that in noble measures, how to express her words of comfort, that the message may indeed carry:

SYMPATHY IN LETTERS.

"That mild and healing sympathy that steals away life's sharpness, ere one is aware."

On all sides the American woman of the smart set must give. If she comes from the East, or abroad, there are the dainty gifts for her friends, which find their way to their homes, with the most fascinating little notes. So when we reflect upon the daily life of the woman of the smart set, we are impressed with a certain thoughtful care of others, which finds its expression in her many letters. And we know, too, that the ability to express herself in charming literary fashion, is a genuine development of the American woman of today.

MERRILL-BUTTON WEDDING.

A wedding of much interest to many people took place this afternoon, at Plymouth Congregational Church, the wedding of Miss Freda Button and Mr. Harry A. Merrill. Both families are pioneer ones in our county, and MISS MARIAN LA TOURETTE, an eastern visitor, who has been entertained on both sides of the bay.

the wedding of the young people is a matter of much social interest to many friends. The Buttons had planned a wedding for their daughter along very elaborate lines. The church ceremony was to have been followed by a large reception at the home of the bride. But for some weeks, Mrs. Button has been very seriously ill, and so the elaborate reception in her home was given up.

The groom, Mr. Harry Merrill, is very popular with a large circle of friends. He is of the staff of the Oakland Bank of Savings and a young man whose success in life is assured in many ways.

His sister, Miss Cheryl Merrill, graduated with the class of last May from the University of California, and her engagement to Professor Scholtz of the University was a recent announcement of much interest to many.

The bride, Miss Freda Button, is a girl of most charming personality. She is very attractive, and very athletic, and very few girls can walk farther, or climb a mountain better. She is a very cultured girl as well, being a graduate of the Oakland High School, and a special student for two years in the University of California.

Plymouth Church was beautifully decorated for the wedding this afternoon, and made a most attractive setting for a charming bridal picture. The color tones of the decorations were in pink, artistically carried out. The church was filled with relatives and friends of both the Merrill and Button families.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Nicholas Luning, as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Cheryl Merrill and Miss Helen Button. The groom was attended by Dr. Malcolm Goddard as best man. The bride made a charming picture in a very handsome wedding costume. Her gown was of dainty marquisette over white silk, the bodice very exquisitely trimmed in lace. The bridal bouquet was of white orchids.

Mrs. Nicholas Luning made a very dainty study in a gown of white marquisette over pale green messaline.

Miss Cheryl Merrill and Miss Helen Button were beautifully gowned in pink chiffon, and they carried exquisite bouquets of pale pink bridesmaid roses.

After the church ceremony there was an informal reception at the Button home for the members of the wedding party, and the families of the bride and groom.

Late this afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Merrill departed on their wedding tour. On their return they will take up their residence on Oxford street, Berkeley, where a very artistic home has been prepared by Mr. Merrill for his bride. They will be "at home" to their friends after September 10.

Their wedding was one of the most notable social events of the week, and the new home about to be established in Berkeley bids fair to be attractive in many ways, and to represent lines of true hospitality.

PORTENTS OF ACTIVE SEASON.

The trappers and hunters of the Northwest can always tell whether we are to have an early winter or not; there are "signs" by which they know. And those experienced in social affairs can predict beforehand about what kind of a social season we may expect. One hears from some of the leaders that the social activities will begin early this season, and already the cards are arriving that mark social reunions by way of beginning the season.

The Oakland Suffrage Club is giving a tea next Tuesday which bids fair to be one of the leading social dates of the week. Every one interested in the movement, who is in town, no doubt will be at the tea, which will be the first large tea of the season. It will be given in the Suffrage rooms at the Albany block, and the hours are from 2 to 5. Many of the Suffrage leaders here have asked their friends to be present, and the tea promises to be a brilliant success.

Among those who always lend a firm support to the Suffrage social dates are Mrs. Frank C. Havens, Mrs. A. A. Moore, Miss Ethel Moore, Mrs. Walter Starr, Mrs. Valentine, Mrs. George E. Whitney, the Misses Whitney, Mrs. D. C. Borland, Mrs. J. B. Hume, Mrs. Eleanor Carlisle.

RECEPTION TO MISS REDINGTON.

Doctor Pauline Nusbaumer will be a hostess tomorrow afternoon, entertaining at an informal gathering in honor of Miss Lena Redington. The informal reception will offer an opportunity for many of Miss Redington's friends to welcome her home, after an absence of many months.

Two years ago Miss Redington, with Miss Irene Schweer, left Oakland for a tour of the world, starting by way of the Orient. Miss Schweer returned last summer with her aunt, Dr. Pauline Nusbaumer, and Miss Redington staid on in Europe, pursuing her study of French.

She arrived in California early in the week, crossing the Atlantic on a Canadian liner, and returned by way of the Canadian Pacific.

Dr. Nusbaumer has invited intimate friends of her own, and of the Redington family, for tomorrow afternoon, and the informal reception promises to be of much interest to them all.

ECHOES FROM DEL MONTE.

Del Monte sends out a special appeal in the autumn days for the weather is at its best there in August and September. There is the bench show, and the golf tournament is of great interest.

W. F. Garby, one of the finest players on the coast, is to represent the Claremont Country Club in the golf tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Searles are spending a few days at Del Monte, and Mr. Frederick Hall and Miss Myra Hall are there also. Miss Kathleen Farrell and Miss Carmen Ghirardelli, who have been playing very good golf on the Del Monte links, have returned to town.

Mr. Hall and his daughter will spend some weeks at the Claremont Country Club, before returning to San Francisco. They will spend the coming winter at the Fairmont.

SOCIAL RECIPROCITY.

While it is still summer many social dates of interest absorb the attention of the smart sets on both sides of the bay. There was a time when there were two distinct sets, and one very rarely met Oakland people at social functions on the other side of the bay.

It is now the day of swift transportation, the day of the motor car, and the popular young girl, or the attractive young matron has quite as many engagements across the bay as she has at home. And well known people from San Francisco are seen at all our teas and receptions, to our great pleasure, and we hope to theirs also.

There is much business jealousy between the two cities, and if it exists in a social way, women have more tact, and it is quietly suppressed.

There was one large tea across the bay, at which the receiving party was not very nice to the Oakland girls, but in this instance, the latter were far prettier, far better gowned, and much better bred. And as certain girls in the receiving party were carefully left out by other hostesses, the Oakland contingent might be said to have won out.

But the real reason for the interchange of social courtesies lies in the fact that so many families, formerly of Oakland, now live across the bay. They keep up the old Oakland friendships which have been dear to them, and they come to Oakland, when they are invited, and the invitations are carefully reciprocated.

And so it is that social history for either side of the bay must include a guest list made up from both cities. Our young girls also have many relatives across the bay who try to make life pleasant for them. Hence many invitations find their way over here for our popular young debutantes.

TRANSPLANTED OAKLAND.

Among the prominent families in the social set of San Francisco are the H. M. A. Millers and the C. O. G. Millers. The men of the families are sons of Mrs. Albert Miller, and cousins of the Misses Herriek and Mrs. Mark Requa. The H. M. A. Millers lived for many years on Madison street, and Mrs. C. O. G. Miller was formerly Janet Watt, the Watts living also for many years on Madison street.

The Misses Marian and Leslie Miller are charming girls, and they are often on this side of the bay—the guests of their grandmother, Mrs. Albert Miller, and of their cousin, Miss Ernestine McNear.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Y. Campbell (Elizabeth Watt), formerly of Oakland, are at the Hillcrest Apartments in San Francisco, and they are often the guests of relatives over here.

The Felton Taylors enjoy life across the bay, and they make their home very pleasant indeed for their relatives. Among their guests are often Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lovell and the Misses Lovell.

Mrs. Charles Bentley (Florence Hush) has a home in Pacific avenue, in which the many members of the Hush family always find a hearty welcome. A great many of the guests at Mrs. Bentley's tea, early in the spring, were from our side of the bay.

The Egbert and the Andrew Stones spend much time in San Francisco, the Andrew Stones coming there from their home in Burlingame. The A. L. Stones entertain for their sisters, the Misses Havemeyer, and the Egbert Stones occupied a home on Broadway last winter and are planning to live across the bay again this coming season. Miss Jennie Stone lives at the Fairmont, and is a very devoted aunt to her bright young nieces.

Mrs. Hope Havens is also staying permanently at the Fairmont, and the Warren S. Palmers spend a great deal of time there.

LEADERS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Mrs. Bush Fennell was Miss Mary Huff and her sisters spend a great deal of time with her in her San Francisco home.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich Barton now live in San Francisco, and Willard Barton spends a great deal of time with them. Mrs. Aldrich Barton often entertains many of her girl friends, among whom are Miss Gladys

English, Miss Carmen Sutton and Miss Jessie Craig.

The Livermores and the Pierces have handsome homes on Russian Hill, and the young people of the families have been educated in schools over here. Beth Livermore comes from Miss Head's school, and Mabel and Hazel Pierce from the Hortox school.

Frederick Hall and his daughter, Miss Myra Hall, live at the Fairmont, and among well known San Francisco people are the William B. Hamiltons and the Edward Hamiltons. Both families have many relatives and friends over here.

The Seward McNears have a handsome home in Ross Valley, the Fred McNears have a fine home in Burlingame, and the John McNears live in San Francisco, and all of them entertain hospitably their friends and relatives.

The William J. Landers lived for years at "The Gables" in San Leandro, but they spend much time now across the bay. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnston (Bernice Landers) live in Mill Valley.

Mrs. James M. Costigan spends most of the year in her picturesque home in Mill Valley, and her daughter, Mrs. Ritchie Livingston Dunn, lives in San Francisco, and both are charming hostesses, entertaining Oakland friends with a whole hearted generosity.

The Edward de Lavengas and the Herbert Moffitts also entertain Oakland friends with much hospitality, an entertainment that is appreciated and returned.

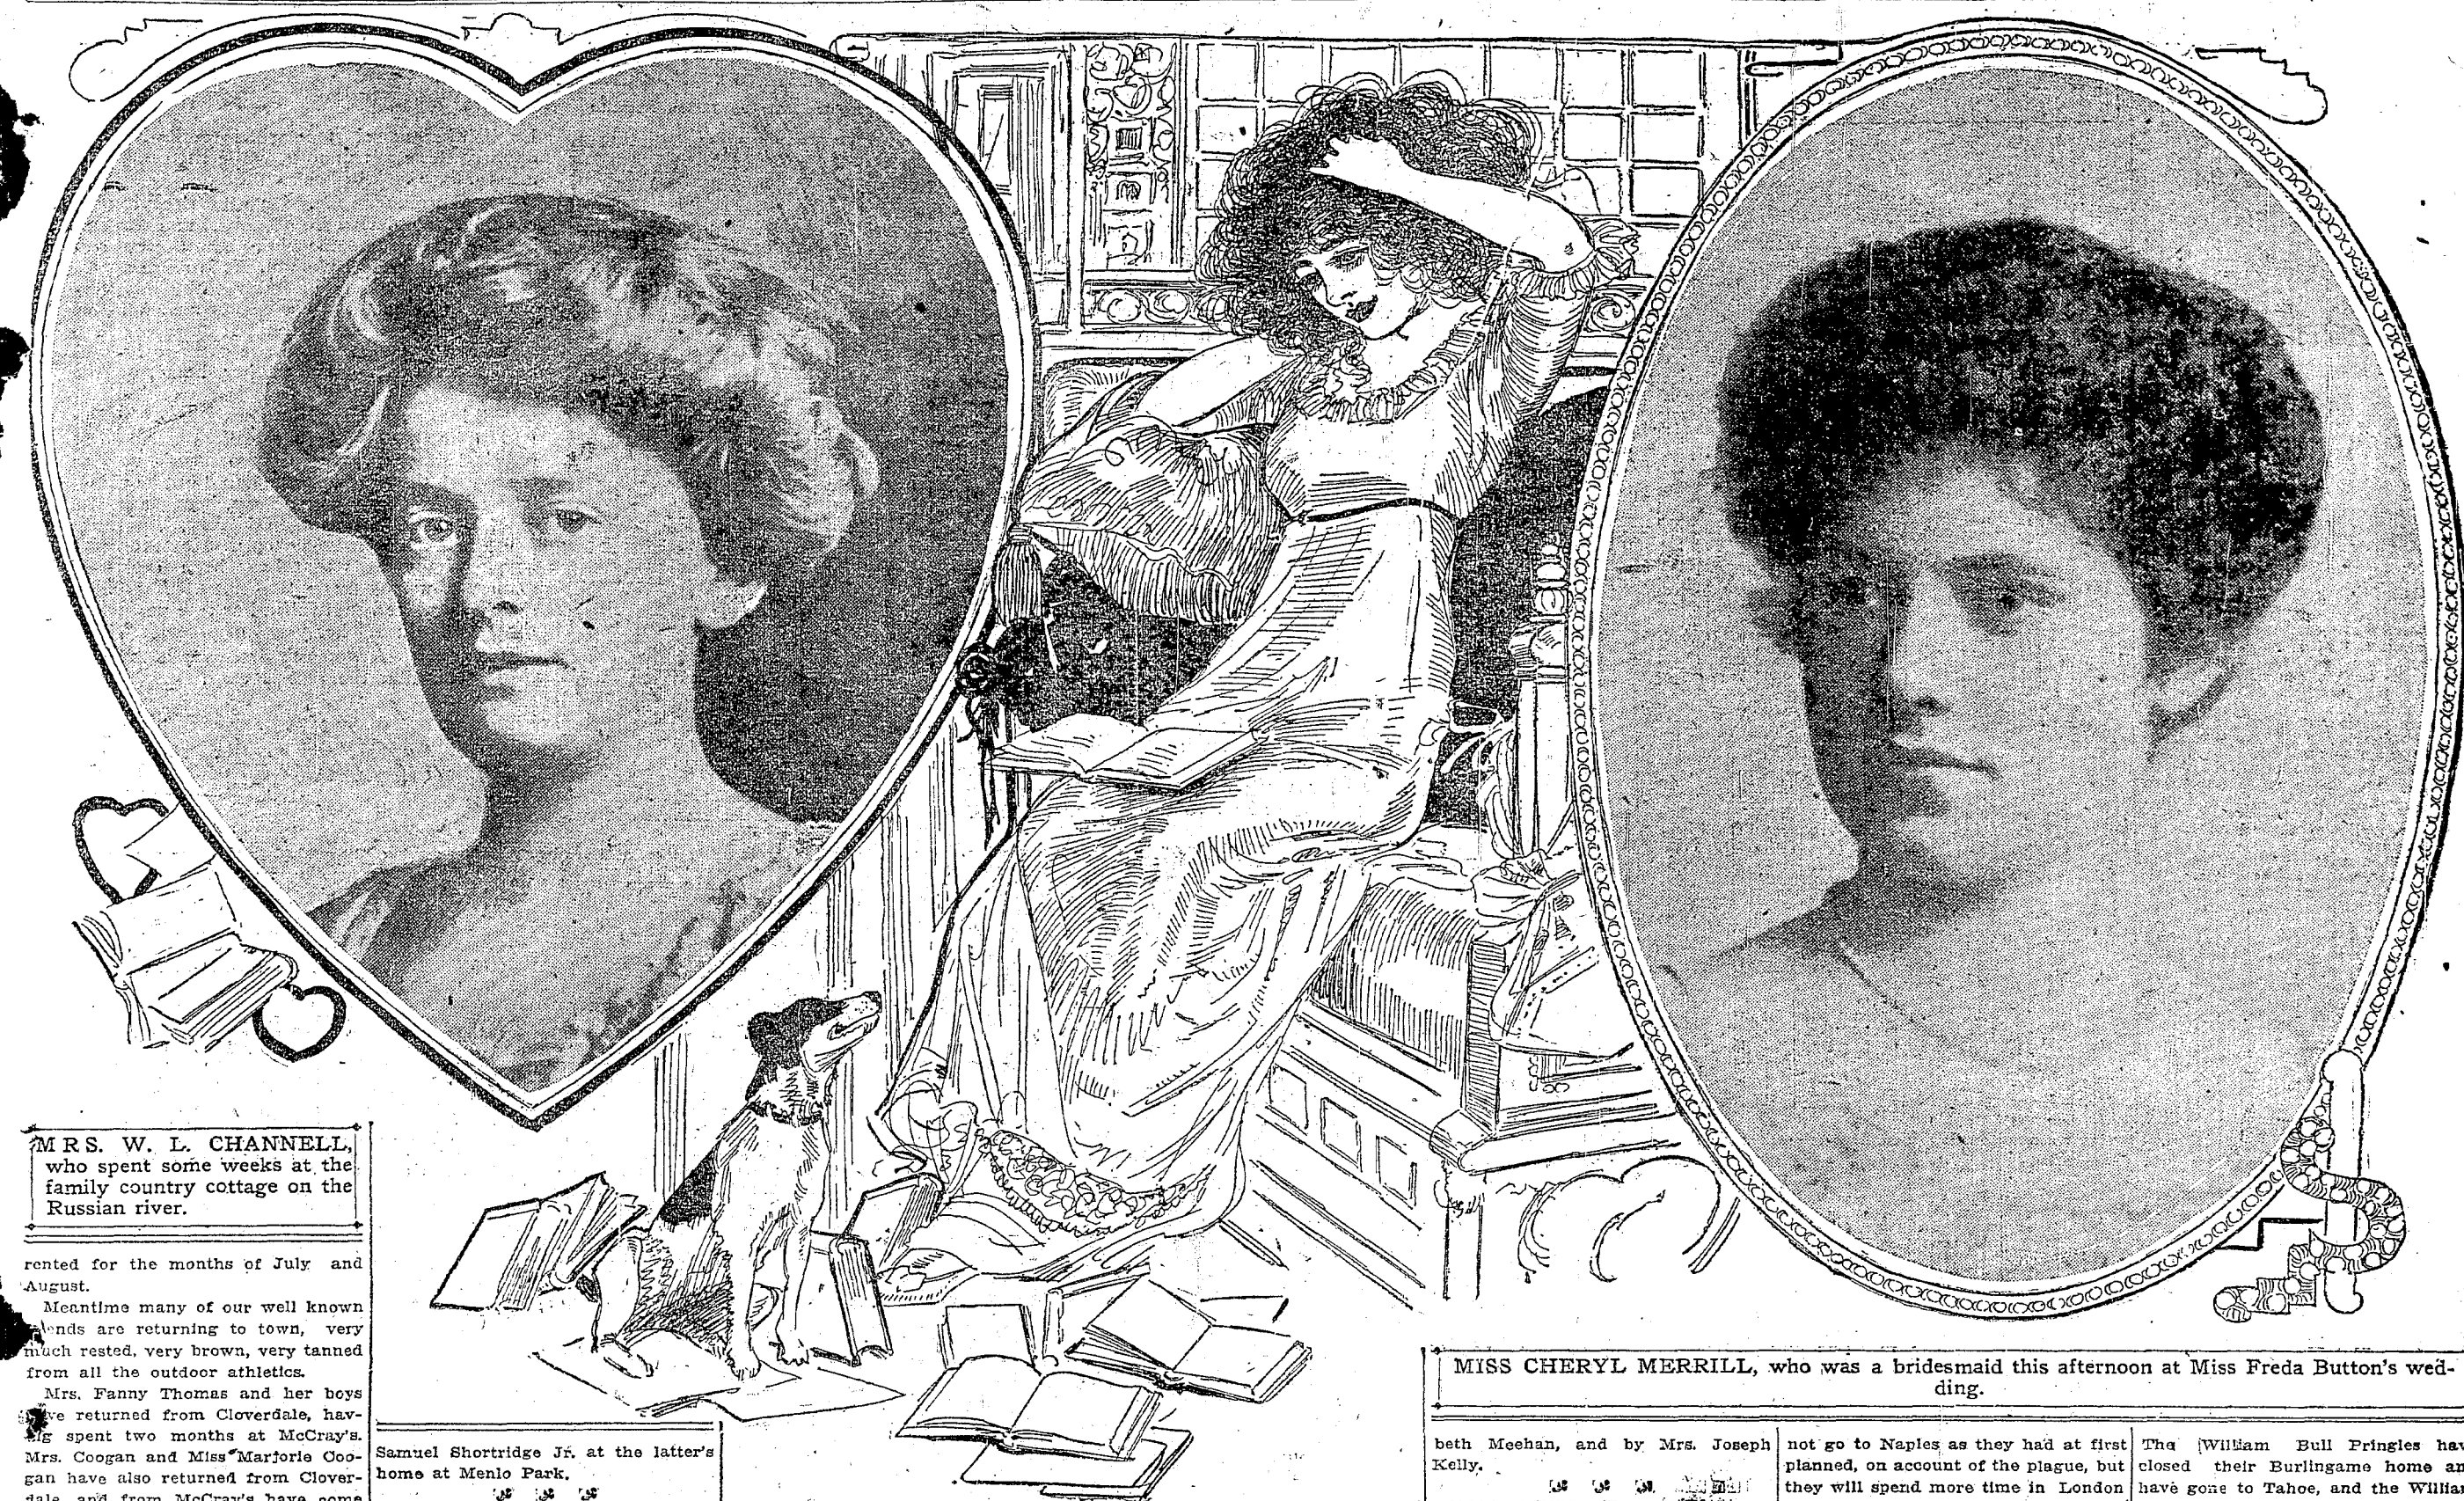

Hundreds of families came across here after the earthquake, and they have made Oakland their permanent home, so the social amenities between the two cities is of ever increasing interest, and they are expected by the young debutantes on both side of the bay.

AT THE SUMMER RESORTS.

There are new sets of people at all the summer resorts, new faces greeting one at all the leading hotels. The country is given over to the children more or less during the months of June and July, but the early August days see them all at home, and safely launched in the year's school work. The cottages everywhere in the mountains do not remain empty. Other families take the places of those who have just left, and the vacation time is still on for those who take their holidays late in the summer. This is specially true of Biwakkala, where many of the cottages have been rented for the months of July and August.

Meantime many of our well known friends are returning to town, very much rested, very brown, very tanned from all the outdoor athletics.

Mrs. Fanny Thomas and her boys have returned from Cloverdale, having spent two months at McCray's. Mrs. Coogan and Miss Marjorie Coogan have also returned from Cloverdale, and from McCray's have come Mrs. Harry Bishop and her children, and the Misses Lilla and Phyllis Lovell.

Mrs. A. J. Adams has closed her Brookdale home, and the family is once more established in their Linda Vista home.

The William Higgs have also returned from Brookdale, where they spent two months of the summer.

GONE TO MORMON TEMPLE.

The Murray Orricks and Mrs. Kenna are comfortably established in their Salt Lake home, and while they must miss the many old friends with whom their life lines have hitherto been cast, they will, of course, make delightful new friends. For Mrs. Murray Orrick is a very charming young matron, and Mrs. Kenna has always been greatly loved by her friends.

The R. G. Browns are still at Shasta Springs, and life there for them has been along such delightful lines, that they are loth to come home.

They have two cottages, side by side, under some wonderfully picturesque pine trees. Mrs. Everts and Miss Florinne, the dear, thoughtful daughters of the Brown household, are very happy at Shasta Springs, and they are all spending delightful days in the mountains. One can easily understand why their cottage is the center of sociability and why afternoon tea under the pines should be a very delightful affair. For from these cottages one looks out upon snow-crowned Shasta, and out upon the wonderful firs, and pines, and oaks, wherein is the majesty of "the forest primeval."

Again and Mrs. Joseph Mathews a few days in town this week, and have been at their home on Oak street. They motored up from Brookdale, where they are spending the summer, and they returned to the country yesterday.

CRANE HOSPITALITY.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Crane have been entertaining many guests this summer at their delightful country place, "Carlton Orchard," at Decoto. Among their guests has been W. B. Jerome of Chicago, who has recently been appointed the western agent of all the New York Central lines. Miss Helen Crane and her brother Carlton Crane Jr. spend much time in San Jose, at the Hotel Vendome. Carlton Crane Jr. was recently the guest of Samuel Shortridge Jr. at the latter's home at Menlo Park.

Miss Edna Rooney, who has been at Schofield Barracks in Honolulu, for the past few weeks, the guest of Captain and Mrs. Sturgis, will sail on August 5 for California.

Miss Rooney will be a frequent guest in Oakland during the coming season, for she will spend a great deal of time with her sister, Mrs. Louis Titus, formerly Alice Rooney.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Miss Cheryl Merrill whose picture appears in tonight's Meddler, was a bridesmaid today at the pretty appointed marriage of Miss Freda Button who has a host of friends in this city.

Miss Marian La Tourette is a sister of Mrs. Lawrence P. Fuller of San Francisco. She is an Eastern girl, her home being in Philadelphia. She has been much entertained in the smart set of the bay cities.

Mrs. W. L. Channell has returned home after spending some enjoyable days on the Russian river, where the family have a pretty bungalow.

Mrs. William Channell and Mrs. F. J. Channell have also returned home.

Mrs. Clarence O. Patten, a bride of a few weeks, was Miss Lottie Ransom Porter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Porter of Berkeley, who formerly made their home in Nevada.

THE UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB A SUCCESS.

In the University Glee Club are many prominent young men from Oakland, so news of their successful career abroad is good news indeed. Since they left Oakland, there has been a long series of triumphs to chronicle, and in Paris and Berlin they were the lions of the hour. It will be hard lines for these young men to get back to the college grind again, and that is what awaits them in the next few days.

The London cablegrams give a whole paragraph to our Glee Club, and in the London notes we read:

"The Glee Club of the University of California gave a concert at Aeolian Hall last evening. It was an original affair, for it began at 9 a. m. and the best seats cost six shillings and the poorest three shillings—scale prices before unknown in London; also, the list of patronesses was quite original in many ways. C. R. Morse, '96, was the director, according to the program.

"The voices were fresh and pleasant, although the balance showed a weakness on the part of the bass division. The program was made up of college songs and some 'rag-times,' while humorous encores were given. Sterling B. Peart, '13, gave some successful monologues. The house was well filled and appeared well pleased."

When our young men come home we must ask them just why "the list of patronesses was quite original in many ways."

MRS. HENSHAW IN SOUTH.

Mrs. William G. Henshaw will not return to Oakland until some time in September, and she has entertained many guests at "Alta Mira," the beautiful country place in which she has spent the summer.

Mrs. Henshaw has entertained large bridge parties at the Santa Barbara Country Club, but the entertainments for the young people have been given at Alta Mira. In the Italian scene at the Santa Barbara Kirmess are to be Miss Florence Henshaw and Miss Ernestine McNear.

One of the dancers at the Kirmess will be Miss Inez Dibblee, who is one of the best dancers in California. She came of a long line of Spanish ancestors and her Spanish grandmother taught her many fascinating steps. She learned many attractive dances also in the months she spent abroad, and she dances far beyond the standard of the ordinary amateur.

Mrs. Henshaw has among her guests this summer Miss Emma Farrier, the Misses Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chickering and Miss Grimes.

MRS. CHABOT LOVES COUNTRY.

Mrs. Chabot loves the country dearly, and she is always very happy in her beautiful St. Helena home. There is a swimming pond at Villaremi, and horses for those who care to ride. Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Bocqueraz are famous horsewomen, very fearless, and they are known all through the countryside. The roads are very picturesque around St. Helena, and safe also, so that motor trips add to the enjoyment of the summer.

Mrs. Chabot is young at heart, and able to enter into young enthusiasm. So there are always guests to add to the brightness of Villaremi. Last week among the house guests were Mrs. Robert Hays Smith and Willard Barton. Mrs. Smith is one of the best known young matrons in the smart set across the bay. She entertains a great deal when she is at home, and is very popular with her young girl friends.

Mrs. Robert Hays Smith was Sue Nicol of Stockton, and she is a guest friend of Miss Anna Peters, who is considered one of the beautiful girls of California. Mrs. Smith's school days were passed in the Convent of the Sacred Heart on Lake Merritt, and so she has many Oakland friends.

TOURING IN THE NORTHWEST.

Mr. and Mrs. James McElroy, Doctor and Mrs. J. M. Kane and the Misses Dunn made up a party which spent the vacation time this year in a tour of the Northwest. They went north by way of Portland, Seattle, and Vancouver, and through the wonderful Canadian Rockies as far as Banff, one of the finest scenic holiday resorts on the continent. Many English tourists spend the summer at Banff, and at Lake Louise, a very beautiful summer resort near Banff.

The party of travelers returned to Portland by way of the Columbia River, and after a few days' stay in Oregon, they left for Yellowstone Park. After some days in the famous national reservation they returned to California.

EN ROUTE TO CONTINENT.

Mrs. H. C. Capwell, Dorothy and Phyllis Capwell, took their departure for the East early in the week, going on to Canada, and planning to sail for Europe from Montreal, on a Canadian liner. A merry crowd of young people gathered at the station to say good-bye to their young friends—quantities of flowers, and books, and boxes of candy were evidences of the popularity of the young girls. They have many friends abroad, who will add to the pleasure of their trip, and they will not return to Oakland until some time in the winter.

Mrs. Jesse Meehan was one of the hostesses of the week, entertaining informally in her East Oakland home, in honor of Mrs. Frederick Loofborow of Salt Lake City. The early hours of the afternoon were devoted to bridge, and the card game was followed by an informal tea.

Mrs. Meehan is usually assisted in entertaining her guests by her sisters, Miss Pauline Kelly and Miss Elizabeth Meehan, and by Mrs. Joseph Kelly.

OAKLAND PEOPLE ABROAD.

In spite of the intense heat prevailing abroad this summer, the worst heat that has been known in forty years, Oakland people on the continent are having an enjoyable summer.

Mrs. John Russ, Doctor Raymond Russ, and Mrs. Charles D. Pierce are in Germany. They have been in Berlin, have spent some time in Baden-Baden, and are now in Dresden. There is a rumor that the marriage of Doctor Russ and Miss Andrews of San Jose will take place in Dresden, and that their wedding tour will be an extended one abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith, who were recently in France, have gone to Belgium, and will spend some days in Brussels. They will also visit "The Hague" before returning to Paris. The Charles Smiths will not go to Naples as they had at first planned, on account of the plague, but they will spend more time in London instead.

The Tobins and Tom Magees have spent a wonderful summer abroad. Mr. Tobin recently bought a superb French touring car, and the four travelers have made ideal trips. They are spending midsummer days in Switzerland, and they write lovely letters descriptive of their picturesque trip.

BACK FROM TAHOE.

Mrs. Henry D. Bull and her daughter Miss Latham, have returned from a trip to Tahoe. They are to be guests for some days this summer at the Holland country home at Brookdale.

The high Sierras have proven very attractive this year, and many well known people have enjoyed a summer holiday this season in the mountains.

The William Bull Pringles have closed their Burlingame home and have gone to Tahoe, and the William Magees and Walter Hush have been at Tallac. One hears that the trout fishing at Tallac is specially good.

Miss Avis Sherwood, Mrs. A. Lowndes Scott, Miss Carol Olney, Mr. and Mrs. George Volkmann and Miss Johanna Volkmann have been guests at Castle Crag. There was a recent masquerade at Castle Crag Hotel, at which honors were carried off by Miss Carol Olney and Miss Johanna Volkmann.

The Maxwell Tafts are camping in the high Sierras, and Dr. and Mrs. Meriman leave this week for a vacation holiday at Sims.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Milton left for the East this week and are planning to be away for two months. Dr. Milton expects to visit leading hospitals in the East this autumn, coming, as usual, study with pleasure.

THE MEDDLER.

The bride was decked in a profusion of lilacs and gladioli. The bride, who is very attractive, wore a very beautiful white lingerie gown made in the latest mode. She is the daughter of W. J. McCoy, a local composer and musician.

Mrs. Reallick has been identified with the musical set around the bay and has a host of friends, who have made her the motif for many pre-nuptial affairs.

TO ARRIVE TODAY.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Loran Pease and their son are expected home today after a five-months' trip away. They spent much time in Montana visiting the parents of Dr. Pease. On their way home they visited Yellowstone Park and also stopped at Portland.

MUELLER-ROBINSON WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Augusta Mueller and Leslie D. Robinson will be solemnized August 16 at the Hillside Club house in Berkeley. Over a hundred cards have been sent out for the wedding, which will be one of the important events of the month. Miss Helen Murray, whose engagement was announced early in the summer, has returned to her home in East Oakland, after a delightful outing in the Santa Cruz mountains. Although the date for the wedding of Miss Murray and Ulrich K. Peterson has not yet been set, several complimentary affairs are being planned for the early fall days in honor of the bride-elect.

BACK FROM RESORTS.

Mrs. W. H. Whisart and family have returned home after an extended sojourn at Lake Tahoe, where they especially enjoyed the fishing.

Mrs. J. C. Fossing and Miss Hazel Fossing are home after a six weeks' sojourn at Carmel.

SMART RECEPTION TODAY.

Major, and Mrs. H. D. Gerrard's home in Berkeley was the setting for a large and handsomely appointed reception which was given today in honor of Mrs. J. Chapman, who will leave shortly for Hamilton, Ontario, where Chapman is to be manager of one of the large banking houses there.

Gerrard is connected with the British consular service and a large number of today's guests were members of the local English colony.

The hospitable home of the Gerrards was decked in English flags and a profusion of cut flowers.

Several other affairs will be given for Mrs. Chapman preceding her departure.

ON RANCH FOR SUMMER.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Arthur Wadsworth (Bessie Fillmon) will spend the greater part of the summer at their ranch near Visalia, returning to Oakland later in the season.

SUMMER PLANS.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Schulthais have motored to Santa Cruz, where they will remain for a week. Mrs. Robert Aiken and Miss Ednah Aiken accompanied them. On their return Dr. and Mrs. Schulthais will leave for New York.

Englebright, Mrs. John Gordon, Edward Gordon, Miss Van Deuberg, Miss A. M. Richardson, Mrs. Frank Laughrey, Mrs. Myra Vieman, William H. Swett and C. C. Simms.

RETURN OF SMART FOLK.

With the return of the smart set to town the regular Saturday night dances at the Claremont Country Club will be given a new impetus. The weekly ball is an informal affair, the members and their friends dropping in for a few hours together at the clubhouse. During the summer the dances have been one of the few pleasures of the local society.

Many lovers of golf here are planning to visit Del Monte for the annual tournament, in September. A number of good players from the Country Club will compete for the handsome trophies. Jack Neville, who is known as a brilliant player among the bay cities men, is expected to make a record for the Claremont Club.

NAT TO SUE FOR LIBEL BECAUSE OF EDNA'S BOOK

'Hasn't Brains to Write It,' Says Her Former Husband

Missouri Man Is Accused of Hitching Wife With Mules to Keep Her Home

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Nat Goodwin has wired his attorneys in New York to bring suit against the Green Book Album for the manner in which they are using his name to advertise Edna Goodwin's novel, "The Goodwin Divorce."

"Of course she didn't write the book any more than you did," observed Goodwin, addressing a bunch of reporters. "She hasn't brains enough to write anything; some one has written it for her and she has put her name to it. But of course the poor girl can't help not having brains."

"I have no quarrel with her for the way in which her publishers are dragging my name through the mire to advertise her book that is alleged to be written by her. She is not to blame, but they are, and if there is law in the land, I will put a stop to the way the publishers are trying to use me for advertising purposes."

When asked today whether he had mentioned Miss Goodwin in his own forthcoming book, Nat Goodwin declares emphatically, "Not a word have I said about her."

"Yes; I have written some things about Miss Maxine Elliott; she is a woman of brains."

Then Goodwin paused a moment, took a whiff of his cigar, and added, "Now I mean to devote an entire chapter to Miss Goodrich."

EDNA GOODRICH, whose book has aroused Nat Goodwin's animosity.

Driven With Mules

LIBERTY, Mo., Aug. 5.—A tale of such cruelty was related in the courtroom of Justice of the Peace Courtney here that La Fayette Choat, a farmer, was held to answer before the grand jury on the charge of beating his wife, whom he tied with a team of mules with which he was harvesting a large field.

The story of Choat's cruelty was related by his wife, who had been in a Kansas City hospital on Saturday, recovering from the treatment. She testified that her husband drove her six times around a field with the mules and then untied her from the mules so he could unhitch them. He then tied her to a post, she said. She declared that he had prodded her with a stick while driving her around the field.

In cross-examining his wife Choat asked:

"So you say before these people that I took you to the field and whipped you like a dog?"

"Yes, late," she answered in a low voice, "you whipped me worse than you would whip a dog."

"According to that I must be a bad man," Choat on the witness stand said he made his wife go to the field because she had threatened to go away with another man. The couple have two little boys.

He denied that he beat her, but admitted that he showed her down. When he said this one of the little boys interrupted in a shrill voice: "Yes you did, papa, and you struck her with a whip, too."

To Wed in Fall

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Miss Margaret Rutherford, the beautiful daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, will be married to Ogden L. Mills at the villa of the Vanderbilts in Normandy on September 25. Mills announced this fact upon his arrival here from abroad yesterday. Miss Rutherford is now in Normandy.

Miss Rutherford will some day come into millions, and it is for this reason that during her stay abroad she has been surrounded by a swarm of impetuous princes, dukes, lords and smaller fry of the nobility.

She is a daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., and as such will inherit a large slice of the Vanderbilt fortune. The mother has been married three times, her first husband being Samuel S. Sands, Jr., and her second Morris Rutherford, Jr.

As all of Miss Rutherford's mother's husbands were millionaires she is one of the richest heiresses in America.

A few months ago Miss Rutherford was reported engaged to Kermit Roosevelt, the rumor being strong enough at one time to make the betrothal almost a certainty.

The Vanderbilt villa in Normandy is known as one of the most beautiful places in Europe, and will afford a striking and picturesque setting for the wedding.

Going to Newport

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Countess Grand, who was Beatrice Mills, arrived here yesterday on the Lusitania. She was met at the pier by her brother, D. Ogden Mills, and escorted to the steam yacht Surf, which set out immediately for Newport, where the countess will spend a month.

Gaby Defers Visit

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Gaby Desly has changed her mind about accepting an engagement. She told a correspondent that she has about decided not to go to New York after all. Asked if King Manzel objected, she replied:

"Now, that is purely a personal matter. You must not ask me why."

Meanwhile, Gaby continues her daily lessons in English, and if she does not go to America at the agreed date, she will go later, as she has an ambition to become an actress of international fame, and to do serious work.

Sues Her Estate

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Richard V. Day of San Francisco has brought suit here against the estate of Countess Strava, who was Mabel E. Hilton of New York, to recover $14,535, which it is alleged he loaned her several years prior to her death in Paris in February, 1910. The defendant's brother, Francis G. Tilley of Portland, Ore., as executor of her estate.

The defense is that the attitude of limitations has run against the claim, but on application of the plaintiff, Supreme Court Justice Brady signed an order for a commission to take the testimony in London of George Kessler, a wine agent.

Says She Killed Self

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—Peter E. Poulos, 23 years old, a Greek waiter at a fashionable hotel here, yesterday surrendered to the police, telling them he was with Mrs. Max Judell early Tuesday morning when she met her death in a fall from a third story window of a cheap hotel.

He said the woman jumped from the window and that he had made an effort to restrain her. He attributes her act to her being nervous due to excessive drinking.

Poulos said he met the woman near her home and that he had never seen her before. An excursion downtown to a restaurant and to the hotel followed the meeting, he said. A few moments prior to her jumping Poulos said he first realized her intentions when he saw her at the window with her left foot on the sill.

Before he could reach her, however, she fell.

The matter so weighed on his mind, he told the police, that for three nights he had been unable to sleep and decided to take former Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dalton into his confidence. The latter advised him to tell the police.

Poulos was looked up following his statement and the charge "suspected of homicide" was placed against him.

To Have Rare Gems

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Miss Madeline Force, who has returned from Newport with her mother, set out yesterday to Philadelphia. To compel her son's mother-in-law to have replaced an inscription on his tombstone, Mrs. Catharine Wright, of 3303 Spring Garden street, is about to bring legal proceedings against Mrs. Susan Sweeney, who is living in the Stratford apartments, Atlantic City.

Mrs. Wright charges that Mrs. Sweeney had the inscription chiseled off the tombstone at the grave of Robert J. Wright, because it did not suit her. Wright was married to Mrs. Sweeney's daughter Helen, and they had three children.

Wright, who was a lawyer, prominent in Democratic politics, died on April 17, 1906, and was buried in Old Cathedral cemetery, Lancaster and Girard avenues, in the burial lot owned by his mother-in-law. Mrs. Wright, his mother, says that with the consent of the widow and mother-in-law she erected a tombstone at his grave in August, 1906, on which was placed the following inscription:

Breathed in Memory of My Son Robert J. Wright Born October 2, 1880. Died April 17, 1906. Husband of Helen Sweeney.

On July 12 Mrs. Catharine Wright, the mother, noticed on visiting the grave of her son that the tombstone had been removed. She said she learned that it had been taken away by order of Mrs. Sweeney. Later it was returned, with the inscription effaced.

Dr. Edward V. Wright, a brother, said yesterday that his family thinks Mrs. Sweeney objected to the words "My son" on the tombstone. He said an injunction has been granted restraining the Sweeneys from putting any other inscription on the tombstone, and that action will be taken to have the old one restored as soon as Mrs. Sweeney returns to Philadelphia.

Police Seeking Missing Woman

SEATTLE.—Leaving her home in Bel-lingham with her 5-months-old baby Friday noon to visit Mrs. W. L. Gehrke, 1225 Twenty-first Avenue South of this city, Mrs. E. E. Runkle of Bellingham has mysteriously disappeared.

Investigation made in this city yesterday by L. F. Runkle, brother of the husband, showed that the woman had been noticed on a train as far south as Everett by a Great Northern conductor, who distinctly recalled handling her perambulator for her. From that city all trace has been obliterated and it is not known whether she reached Seattle in safety.

At the time of her disappearance Mrs. Runkle had about $100 in cash on her person, while there was in deposit in this city sums amounting to $1200. These deposits have not been touched. Inquiries at the hospitals and morgues have failed to reveal any woman answering to her description, and her order her trousseau. It is expected that dozens of shopkeepers will be working under heavy pressure to supply the wardrobe within the brief period of sixty days.

In the same period Colonel Astor plans to provide for his bride as magnificent a collection of jewels as is possessed by any lady of quality in the land. As a mere trifle to begin with he bestowed upon his betrothed a $12,000 engagement ring. This vastly important bauble is set with a single stone, an opal diamond of the clearest water, 14 carats.

Didn't Know Name

OROVILLE, Aug. 5.—Because he did not know the name of his future wife it was necessary for Albert Bryant of Biggs to have his marriage license annulled before the ceremony could be performed. Bryant is 26 years of age. He applied at the county clerk's office for a license to marry Roseatha Glespa, aged 33.

After the usual closing hours for the county clerk's office Bryant returned with a statement that he was mistaken in the name of his future wife and that instead of Glespa her name was Gillespie.

The license was accordingly changed and the ceremony was performed.

Stanford Romance

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Aug. 5.—The matrimonial bureau of the university again scored a victory when Theodore Medmann of Alameda led Miss Maybelle Barlow to the altar as his bride at the beautiful Barlow home in Los Angeles. The couple have been sweethearts for the past three years at Stanford. Last month their engagement was made public and the young couple have been extensively entertained by the society of the younger set in Los Angeles.

At his grave in August, 1906, on which was placed the following inscription:

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR CHARM

By LILLIAN RUSSELL

(Copyright: 1911, By Lillian Russell.)

THE so-called brainy women are taking up the subject of health and beauty. At a recent meeting of a large, influential club one speaker said: "To make the best of one's self is not to cultivate a certain part at the expense of another, and the woman of today who devotes her time to the expanding of her brain to the exclusion of all thought of her health and beauty is as much a deformity as though she were developing to the utmost her right arm while keeping the left one in a bandage so tight that its circulation is impaired and the muscles paralyzed. The woman who neglects her physical appearance even while cultivating her brains is quite as much at fault as is she who makes physical beauty the ultimate end of all her life's endeavor."

"We have peculiar ideas today of the value of things. Most of us would be much ashamed if some one heard us say: 'I seen' or 'I done,' yet we have no qualms of conscience when we stand in such a manner that we throw our organs of generation and digestion entirely out of place. Is it not much more important that these organs be properly placed to enable them to do the work which nature puts upon them, and which, after all is said and done, is the only work the laws of nature recognize, than that we bow to the idiosyncrasies of the

MRS. M.: Headache may be due, among other causes, to irritation of the eyes, to diseased condition of the nose, to indigestion, to too much or too little acid in the stomach, to constipation, to irritation from the teeth, particularly unsound upper teeth. A few headaches are due to abnormal conditions in the ears, sometimes to the simple presence of wax. After removing the special cause, fresh air and exercise are not to be neglected. I am sending you by mail the recipe for an excellent hair tonic.

ANXIOUS. Nothing is as good for the hair as scalp massage. This is one of the treatments that can be done by an amateur and that requires only moderate skill to produce good results. The object is to stimulate the circulation of the blood in the scalp. If you will send me self-addressed envelope and letter asking me for them I will send you instructions for massaging the scalp and the recipe for a tonic which I have used successfully. In applying the hair tonic, after moistening the scalp, always give a massage treatment.

GRACE: It is possible for every woman who possesses sufficient will power and patience to transform an unlovely neck, scrawny with disfiguring hollows under the collar bone and dry, yellow skin, into one of charming contour with firm white skin. Exquisite cleanliness, deep breathing, massage, and feeding of the skin with nourishing creams is the magic recipe. I cannot emphasize too strongly what a powerful influence deep breathing has upon the hollows about the collar bones. It is somewhat difficult to get into these places for massage, but deep, full breathing, with the arms outstretched, as you will observe by watching them fill out when you inhale deeply. Make it a practice to breathe deeply at all times, but take regular exercise night and morning. I am a firm believer in the efficacy of massage for plumping the throat. Massage increases the circulation, and in moving the tissues under the skin, which is the secret

English language? One will leave its impress upon children yet unborn, while the other will mark only a lack of book culture.

"Do not mistake me. I am not decrying the education we derive from books, but I am trying to put on the same high plane the cultivation of the physical woman. It is more necessary for the woman of today to be beautiful than to be brainy, because beauty means health in its perfection, and without it no woman can perform the duties which she owes to herself, her husband, her children, her home, or the state."

"All humanity has the potentiality of beauty within itself. Unless one suffers from some physical deformity there is no reason why at the age of 35 every woman should not be comely. This you may call heresy, because in the mind of the usual person beauty, especially feminine beauty, means youth. However, this is one of the ideas that have been impressed upon us by man-made traditions. A woman should be more beautiful in her ripe perfection than she is during her years of promise."

Remember—A woman's first duty is to be beautiful; after that the rest is easy.

WHITE WOMEN TO RULE: AMAZON WIELDS WHIP

ATLANTA, Ga.—Fixing good character as one requisite for qualifying to vote, and determining good character by the test of respect for good womanhood, is the intent of a proposed change in the constitution of Georgia, favored by Representative J. J. Slade, and favorably reported to the legislature by the committee on constitutional amendments.

The friends of the amendment frankly admit its purpose is to forever disfranchise the negroes, and Captain Slade declares it will have the effect of disfranchising every negro in Georgia regardless of what other qualifications he might possess.

In view of the fact that under his proposed amendment respect for womanhood becomes the prime requisite for qualifying for the ballot, some member asked Captain Slade how white men would be able to establish proof of good character as defined.

"Any good white man can get a good white woman to testify that she would trust him in the dark," replied the captain.

"If any white man can't, the scoundrel should be disfranchised."

It is said the amendment will probably be passed.

RICHMOND, Va.—In her own words, this is the story of the girl who figures in one of Virginia's most sensational murders:

"I never knew any better. When I was a child my mother was too busy to care for me or to tell me what a girl should know. Then when I did wrong everybody was against me. If I tried to live straight some one would discover who and what I was, and I was pushed downhill again. I was ready to die for Harry Beattie, but I was thinking of Harry's old father and his baby when I said I would do that. You see, Harry had them and a future before him, while there is nothing in sight for me."

DOESN'T WANT TO BE BALED.

Seated in her cell in the Richmond Jail, 17-year-old Beulah Binford, the "other woman" in the life of Henry Clay Beattie Jr., charged with the murder of his beautiful young wife—the mother of his five weeks' old child—to-day gave her first interview. She blamed no one and insisted she did not want to be baled out; she was ready to stay where she was until the authorities cleared her of any suspicion of connection with the crime.

In his cell on another corridor, young Beattie maintained his placid attitude, smoking cigarettes, and strumming on his guitar. His cousin, Paul Beattie, who admits he purchased the gun with which the murder was done, is in a state of nervous collapse in a cell a few feet away. Both men will be put through the "third degree" tonight, and the police hope then to establish the connection between them and a third man in the case, who, they think, was paid to commit the actual crime.

GIRL WILL TELL ALL SHE KNOWS. Beulah Binford will tell all she knows of the murder to the grand jury and will repeat her story in court. The police, by working on her emotions, have brought her around to their way of looking at the murder. But all she can tell is that Henry Beattie was her first love. This was his second anniversary of the death of her and Beattie's child, but she expressed no regrets. The baby was better off, that was all.

She denied the report that Beattie, tired of his society wife, wanted her killed, so that he could marry his childhood sweetheart.

"Harry was a good fellow," she said, "but he knew just the kind of a girl I was. I could hardly expect him to marry me. And I never did."

The girl was 17 years old recently and celebrated with a dinner served in solitary state in her cell. Between times she read "St. Elmo."

The students' council of the associated student body of the Oakland high school held its first session of the term yesterday afternoon at the local high school. John Whitton, the newly elected president, presided, with Margaret Morrison in the secretary's chair.

The president briefly outlined his proposed work in an address to the representatives with the three issues to be put before the school, namely: Self-government, an interscholastic agreement with the Berkeley high school, and the cutting down of expenditures.

The question of self-government has twice been put before the students and rejected on the claims of destroying school spirit, owing to the rule of a few students.

An interscholastic agreement with the Berkeley high school would be of a great benefit to the two schools. In the past the two schools have quarreled over trivial matters, with the result that good athletes are destroyed by long periods of quarrelling.

R. H. Sutton of the faculty addressed the assembly on the matter of cutting down money expenditures. In the past money has been voted by the council without watching the condition of the treasury, with the result of the school going into debt. This fault was corrected yesterday by an amendment which states that all money appropriations over $5 must first be voted on by the financial committee and reported favorably or otherwise to the council.

Mr. Forbes of the faculty was elected purchasing agent for the school.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Declining to give her name to the police, a woman threw W. D. Lewis, a real estate agent, into the middle of the street for attempting to hug her, and then thrashed her own husband for not doing the job for her, at First and Market streets. Lewis was arrested by Patrolman Fuller on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Following is the significant report of Patrolman Fuller to Captain Bailey:

"Tonight W. D. Lewis stopped to greet a business man on First and Market streets, fell in love with the man's wife at first glance and tried to hug her. The woman threw him into the street and whipped her husband for not doing it for her. Lewis, believing he could 'come back' crossed the street and said he could whip anybody on that side of the street, except six. Charge, drunk and disorderly."

Lewis carefully remained on the side of the street from which he was challenging, not daring to take in the territory across the street, where he had been woman-handled, while the woman he tried to hug whipped her husband.

The officer said there were few preliminaries in either encounter, and the woman is not large at that, but is strongly built and exhibited a prowess with her fists that would put the average amateur pugilist to shame. With one swing she flung Lewis sprawling into the street, and then, with evident knowledge of the manly art, punished her husband for not taking up the insult, doing the job in a finished manner.

SHE IS AMONG FIRST TO REGISTER

FLORENCE LAUFER, who has frequently taken part in juvenile entertainments.

Florence Laufer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laufer of East Oakland, was among the first to register in the primary department of the Franklin school, last Monday morning.

Miss Florence is one of the most talented girls in the class, and prior to the closing of school in June she took part in a juvenile performance which was one of the most successful entertainments held in East Oakland. She has a tendency toward the stage.

A feeling of regret when the gates of the playground were closed. The little ones said that they had learned the secret of play, and next year the same methods will probably be employed to interest the tots in healthy sport.

BOY EDITOR PLEADS FOR NEW LIBRARY READING ROOM

Irving Domes, 16-year-old boy editor of the East Oakland Amateur Journal and Newspaper, has published an appeal to the citizens of this community for a new reading room in the territory of East Oakland. He presents the following argument on behalf of the people of this district:

"Without question, the people of this vicinity, as we all know, stand for progress and the advancement of education. At the present time the people of this district, from Lake Merritt to Stanley road, are making a gallant fight to have the new 'Poly' high school erected on a proposed site in East Oakland. Of course this shows the progressive attitude of the people of the whole of East Oakland. Now let us get at the attitude of the people of this local district, the district from the lake to Sixteenth or Seventeenth avenue. Are they standing for progress and advancement of education? Most likely they are. But still we wish to propose an advancement which will bring and promote education. That is, the erection or renting of a large airy building, where an up-to-date reading room for East Oakland may be installed."

"Of course, we are in possession of a reading room now. But it has many faults for which no remedies are available. The only remedy is to give us a new reading room. If you saw the Gazette of July 1 you know the faults. If they were exposed in that issue, if you are for progress, boost. Let us know your attitude."

POET REJOICES THAT MUSE FINDS HOME IN WEST

BARD MILLER
HEARS GOOD TIDINGS

Rejoices Over Muse Coming
Into Her Own in These Piping Times.

Entertains College Men in Poetic Love Feast at His Home.

"Which is the way to Boston town?"
"One foot up and one foot down—
That is the way to Boston town."

Poet Joaquin Miller, who is slowly regaining strength at his home on the heights near Diamond, told his guests yesterday that this is "the only way" to reach his home in the hills, if one lacks an automobile or carriage.

And it was in this way that news of an extraordinary revival of interest in poetry on the east shore of San Francisco bay was borne to the aged bard.

The message was carried to the heights by Dr. John Duncan Spaeth, professor of English literature at Princeton University, who had just lectured to more than 600 people in Harmon gymnasium on the poetry of Walt Whitman.

Dr. Ernest C. Moore of Yale, formerly of the education department of the State University, and Mrs. Moore, accompanied Dr. Spaeth to the Miller home.

POETS COMING TO FRONT.

"California, like the rest of the country, is taking more interest in poetry," the professor of literature told the poet of the Sierras.

And the poet was glad. He said so, after making no concealment of his surprise that the work of the master bards was gaining greater recognition on the western side of the continent.

Perhaps he did not expect poetry to come into its own quite so soon in the West, and he was plainly grateful that he had lived to see the Muse vying successfully with material activities.

Dr. Spaeth told of his summer session class having been crowded out of a large recitation room into Harmon gymnasium.

RECEIVES IN ARM-CHAIR.

The poet had risen from his bed, where he has spent most of the time since leaving the hospital, and sat blanching in a comfortable chair to receive his guests.

Miller, who has ministered to her father's every need since his return to "the Heights," knelt on the floor.

Near the end of the visit Miss Miller recited her father's poem "Berkeley," which was recently given by an admirer, a reader at Yale University, Dr. Spaeth and Dr. Moore, one an admiring visitor in the college city and the other a former resident, had asked for its rendition.

Then the poet and Dr. Spaeth talked of Walt Whitman, who had been introduced in the educator; of George Eliot, whom Miller knew in the seventies; of the Robertis and Henry Van Dyke.

TALKS ON VAN DYKE.

"I love Dr. Van Dyke more than any poet I have not known intimately," said Miller.

He agreed with the professor as to the "humorousness" of Walt Whitman, whose sex views receive nothing but commendation from the Princeton educator.

Miss Miller served tea. She was in the midst of this, and the comment upon the poet was at its height, when Juliet appeared in a doorway.

This member of the household, who had been previously introduced, Juliet, who is the mother of a basketful of new kittens, had not visited this room for many days, on account of her furry charges, and her appearance surprised even the Millers.

Juliet left her tea-pouring, provided Juliet with cream, and the discussion of verse-makers and their work was resumed.

Miller freely inscribed his autograph in a new volume of his poems which he had presented to Dr. Spaeth, which the educator intends shall be a gift to his daughter.

SHOWS INROADS OF SICKNESS.

The inroads of long illness were plainly shown in the trembling fingers of the poet, as he blurred ink over the pages. He added his Indian signature to the English name.

Before the newspapermen reached the cottage, the reading of a new poem by Miller had ended, and the discussion of it had almost reached the same stage. It is an unfinished poem, which the writer hopes to complete as his strength increases.

But the poet will give to the world no knowledge as to its subject. He is like a human hand reaching into a bird's nest and spoiling the eggs before they had hatched," said Miller.

The poet of the Sierras had sat long in his easy chair and his vigor was waning with the afternoon. He had said that it was time for him to be helped to his couch.

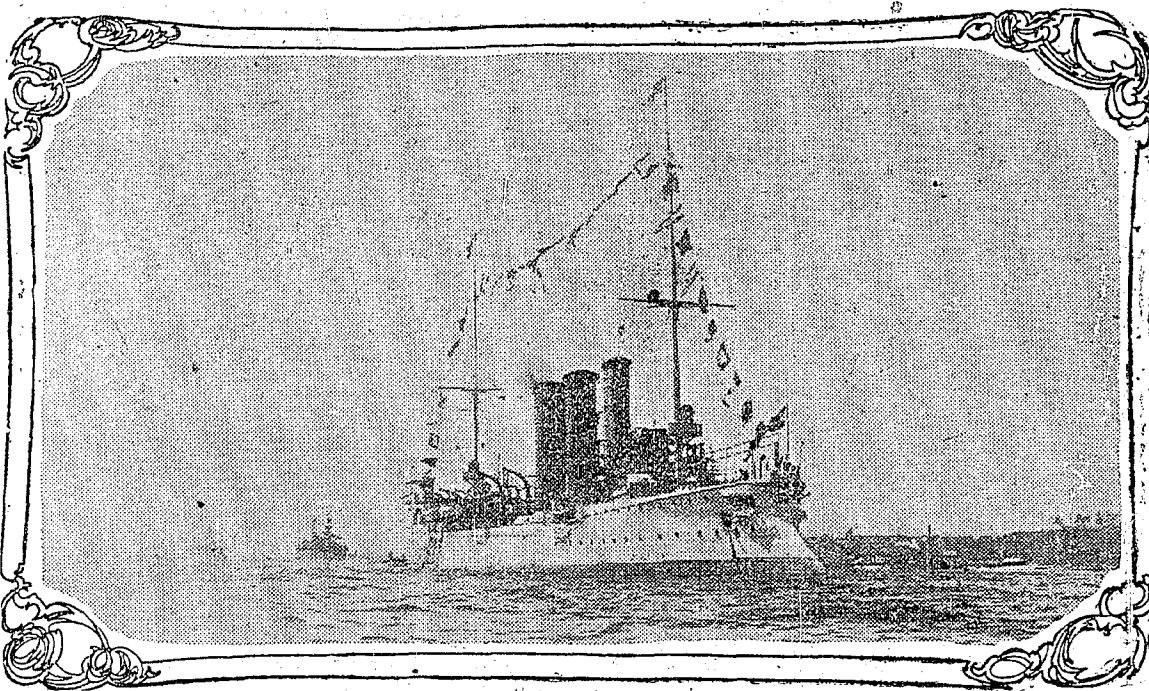

He gave each a handclasp and wished all a "pleasant walk."

The educators went away happy after their communion with a great poet and under rested and perhaps meditated over the tidings that poetry is finding a home and friends on the western coast.

CHAOS AND BLOODSHED HOVER OVER HAYTI
SAFETY PLANS OF FOREIGN CONSULS FAIL

The German cruiser Bremen which the Kaiser has ordered to Hayti to protect the interests of German subjects.

Ambitions of Rival Leaders May Plunge
Distracted Island Into Anarchy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Efforts of the diplomatic corps at Port Au Prince, Hayti, to form a committee of public safety have failed. American Minister Furness has reported to the State Department that a conflict between the opposing revolutionary factions seems inevitable.

General Lacombe and General Firmin are rival candidates for the succession to the deposed president, Simon, and each is backed by a turbulent faction following there is danger of a clash at any moment. Already the representatives of the foreign governments at Port Au Prince are considering any means to preserve the peace if possible, at least to have the armistice continued in the hope of averting an armed conflict between the revolutionary generals.

Marines from the German cruiser Bremen, which were landed a day or two ago at the request of the German consul, still occupy the ground in front of the consulate and are ready for any emergency. The followers of General Firmin are in control of the affairs of Port Au Prince, but General Lacombe has a large army within striking distance of the city and at any time may make a demand for the surrender of the authority now tentatively held by the Firmin support.

The German consul has indicated that he is prepared to land as many more men from the cruiser as may be desired.

The state department and the war department are both in hourly communication with the American consul at Port Au Prince. Several American warships are in the West Indian waters and at the first sign of mob rule it is likely that they would be rushed to the distracted island.

ONE MILLIONTH
PATENT IS ISSUED

Puncture Proof Tire Receives Distinction From United States Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The millionth patent issued by the United States was announced today by Commissioner of Patents Moore. It is for a puncture-proof tire for automobiles and other vehicles depending on rubber springs for its resiliency, and is the invention of an Akron, Ohio, man.

So much interest had been displayed in the completion of number 1,000,000 that Commissioner Moore consented to announce the patent a head of publication in the next issue of the official gazette on August 8.

Although this patent bears the number 1,000,000, it is really number 1,000,987. Until 1836, when the present bureau was organized, patents were issued without being numbered. Between 1790 and 1836, during which period patents were under control of the State Department, 987 were issued.

A steady growth has been shown in inventive genius in the United States since formation of the present bureau. In 1835 only 100 patents were issued. Since then increases have shown each year. During the calendar year 1909 32,000 were issued, and in 1910 the number reached 55,118. It is believed this year will show an even greater increase. These figures do not include re-issues.

In reaching the millionth patent today Commissioner Moore said no application had been selected to receive this number.

BURGLAR GIVEN
LIGHT SENTENCE

Suffering of Jose Morello Saves
Him From Stiff Term.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—Only the fact that he had suffered untold torture from a bullet wound through the body saved Jose Morello, a convicted burglar, today from a long term in San Quentin penitentiary. In the early morning hours of April 8 last Morello terrified the household at 1434 Washington street, and, escaping, was forced to jump from a window.

hue and cry was raised after him and several milkmen chased him in their wagons and finally one of them, taking deliberate aim, fired and shot him, the bullet passing through the body.

For days Morello lay between life and death in San Jose, his recovery was duly noted, and today Judge Dunne gave him five years in prison.

Put Over Until Thursday Afternoon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—Supported on either side by her mother and father, but shaking as though suffering from the ague, Anna Gaffney Langley, who shot and killed her husband because of his refusal to return home with her, collapsed on the second floor of the Hall of Justice this morning.

She had nerved herself for the ordeal of appearing in court and the strain had been upon her throughout the morning. As she walked up the winding stairs and reached the corridor in front of the fire commissioner's office, she fell with a cry and had to be carried into the office of the chief.

It was with difficulty that she was finally restored, but when she did regain her composure she seemed to draw herself together in a masterful way and was calm and collected as she stood at 11 a. m. before Police Judge Deasy to answer to a charge of murder.

There was much craning of necks in the court room and a crowding forward of spectators to get a glimpse of the frail girl, but the proceedings were short and decisive and but a few minutes after she had been led into the room she was able to go forth again and proceed to her home protected from the eyes of the curious.

Assistant District Attorney Roach told the court that as the grand jury had yet to hear evidence of witnesses to the shooting, he would ask a continuance. Attorney Fitzpatrick, representing the defendant, consented, and the matter was put over until Tuesday afternoon.

At the station last night while awaiting the arrival of Admiral Togo, Lieutenant-Colonel Inouye, military attaché of the Japanese embassy, was chatting with Major Butt on the kinds of full dress uniform worn by the Japanese army and the President also asked particularly whether Admiral Togo would wear a white evening uniform or full dress naval attire.

"Full dress," responded the Japanese military attaché, whereat Major Butt declared every American army and navy officer present also would wear full dress and he commented on the heavy weight of the American uniform, with its ponderous medals, epaulettes and braids.

"Yes," remarked Major Butt, "we are all to perspire a good deal in honor of your great naval hero."

14 SATURDAY EVENING
8000 MEN ASK HIGHER
PAY FROM S. P. SYSTEM
Company Refuses Demand on Ground of Economy and Begins to Fence in Local Shops

Over 8000 men are involved in a dispute between the Southern Pacific Company and its machine and mechanical men on the western division over wages. A demand for an eight-hour day instead of a nine-hour day with a flat increase of 7 cents an hour of pay may precipitate serious labor troubles on the western lines of the system.

The company has declared it cannot accede to the demand, which, according to J. J. Small, superintendent of motive power, would mean an addition to the payroll of $2,746,000 a year. There are other minor points included in the demands of the men, such as free transportation, and a higher scale for overtime.

SHOPS BEING FENCED IN.
The greater portion of the mechanical force of the Southern Pacific is employed in the shops in Oakland and Sacramento. The company, apparently with the view of being ready for an emergency, has begun the construction of a high fence about its shops in West Oakland. The work has been under way for two days and already a large stretch of barricade has been completed. Over one hundred men are employed in this work.

The demand for a higher wage scale comes from the Shop Employees' Federation, an organization born from the ranks of the men. The Federation is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and claims to have behind it the membership of practically the entire mechanical payroll of the company. In the opinion of the Federation, the other hand, insists that the Federation does not represent the majority of its men.

SEPARATE CONTRACTS.
In the past it has been the custom for the different crafts to make their own contracts with the company and there are contracts in force separately at present with the boiler makers, blacksmiths, repair men and various other divisions of mechanical labor. These agreements have still several months to run, and while the new Federation leaders assume a confident tone, it is not believed that there is any immediate danger of a break in the relations between the big corporation and its men. Here are the demands of the Federation as submitted to the company early in the week:

Eight hour day and six days a week. Night men to be allowed nine hours' pay for eight hours' work. Every employee to be allowed an hour on pay at the end of the week.

Employees to be given leaves of absence for ninety days as substitute for dismissals when work is slack.

Overtime to be paid for at the rate of time and a half. After midnight, double time to be paid.

Abolition of physical examinations. Apprentices to be limited to one for every five mechanics. Apprentices to be all employees.

Flat increase of 7 cents an hour for men in the shops. The recommendation of the foremen if they fail to show aptitude for the trade.

Free transportation for employees, dependent members of their families and representatives of the mechanical department.

Equal membership on the board of directors of the Hospital association.

The reply of the company is contained in this statement issued from the office of H. J. Small:

These demands will involve an increase in expenses for the shops under my jurisdiction of approximately $2,746,000 per annum, and which I must deduct from the company's earnings.

It is to be noted that during the last five years all of our shop crafts have been given increases averaging 12 1/2 per cent, and in some cases as much as 30 per cent, and furthermore, that the wages now paid in the shops under my jurisdiction are higher than paid in the United States.

In addition to the high scale of wages, the Southern Pacific company, within equitable limitations as to age and time of service, has voluntarily introduced a pension system which provides every employee for the remainder of his life.

You should also know that I have received requests for conferences from representatives of crafts with whom the company has agreements, and I have advised them that I would take pleasure in settling terms for such conferences as has heretofore been the practice.

In case of a strike, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Roseville, Tucson, Stockton and Bakersfield would be involved, as well as Oakland and Sacramento, as there are shops at these points.

RAILWAY REJECTS DEMANDS.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—The Southern Pacific railway, in a statement given today by F. G. Athearn, head of the department of economics, officially refused recognition to the newly-organized "Federation of shop employees of the Harima lines," and will continue to deal with separate classes of employees as heretofore.

Mr. Athearn said that the building of fences around the shops at Oakland and San Jose was merely a coincidence and had nothing to do with the new demands. Notices containing the statement of the Federation's demands and the reply of H. J. Small, superintendent of motive power, for the company have been sent out from here to be posted in all of the shops of the system.

SWEEPING CONCESSIONS.
Railway officials say the demands made by the new organization are the most far-reaching and sweeping in the annals of the railroad of the country. Not only do the employees ask for less time to work and more pay, but they fix the number of apprentices to be hired; they insist upon what shall be done with employees when they become old, and they set out when a man is being laid off he must be given a pass all over the company's lines and a ninety-days' leave of absence. No examination must be required for his re-employment, and the last man laid off must be the last man rehired.

It was ascertained this morning from the Southern Pacific officials that the new organization was under no working agreement with the company, and that the several crafts embraced in it were agreed to give the company thirty days' notice before making demands. This notice has been given by the blacksmiths, the coppersmiths and the boiler makers, and they will be treated with individually.

GREAT HEAT WAVE TAKES 1000 LIVES CLAIMED BY DEATH

Ten Days of Suffering Fatal
for Hundreds of German Residents.

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—More than 1000 deaths have occurred here from sunstroke during the ten days of Germany's heat wave, as well as many more from heart failure during bathing, and some 500 from gastritis and typhus caused by lack of water.

An epidemic has broken out in the Moselle valley, caused, according to medical reports, by decaying fish, which were netted in the shoals. Vast quantities of fish have been thrown over to the public authorities for destruction. The fish were suffering from a kind of septicemia owing to the over-heated water.

In many German cities the water works supply water for only a couple of hours daily. The police have had to issue orders that no water be used except for drinking. Even in Berlin the authorities have suspended street watering except in the main avenues, as fears are entertained that the supply may run short.

In the south German states almost all the governments have suspended work in public departments, except for a few hours in the early morning, as sickness, resulting from the heat, has decimated the staffs.

Schools will not be reopened in the middle of August as usual, because the doctors declare that only strong children would be able to endure brain work in the intense heat.

MILLIONAIRE EARL UNDER INDICTMENT

Los Angeles Editor and Fruit
Man Accused of "Tapping" Wireless.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Edwin T. Earl, owner and publisher of two Los Angeles papers, the Express and the Tribune, was indicted by the grand jury late yesterday on a charge of disclosing the contents of an intercepted wireless message. A bench warrant was issued as a matter of form, but Earl was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

The indictment, which is the latest and most spectacular phase of a bitter editorial controversy between Earl's papers on the one side and on the other the Otis, the Herald, commonly reputed to be owned by Otis, and the Examiner, a Hearst paper.

The message, which was intercepted by three young amateur wireless operators, Kenneth Ormiston, Harry Roome and David Smith, was printed in the Tribune Monday morning and in the Express that afternoon, and is as follows:

"To F. S. Peard, Avalon—General suggestion over phone that we make reproduction of Examiner Earl expose in Herald this morning. Suggestion sounds good to me, and will follow it unless you wire to the contrary. Both phone ordinances passed by council and signed by mayor this afternoon. Now is the opportune time for reprint."

Peard is business manager of the Herald and Fenner Webb the managing editor.

Webb, in a statement last night, blamed his indictment on the personal animosity of the prosecuting officials, who are his political opponents.

"I learned a few days ago," said the banker in explaining his scheme, "that a nine-story apartment house was going up shortly on the lot to the west of my house. Already a tall building blocks me to the east. I decided to protect the privacy of my home, which my family has occupied for more than seven years, and there was no other way that I could conceive but a fence high enough to shut off all the curious eyes of my apartment-house neighbors. The fence will be of ornamental brick and as artistic as possible under the circumstances."

FENCE 150 FEET HIGH FOR PRIVACY

Banker to Adopt Unique Plan to Bar Rubber-
necks.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Plans for a fence 150 feet high to be erected with the New York City building department by J. M. Francolinia, a wealthy banker, who expects thus to maintain a privacy of his uptown residence despite the encroachments of apartment houses in the neighborhood.

"I learned a few days ago," said the banker in explaining his scheme, "that a nine-story apartment house was going up shortly on the lot to the west of my house. Already a tall building blocks me to the east. I decided to protect the privacy of my home, which my family has occupied for more than seven years, and there was no other way that I could conceive but a fence high enough to shut off all the curious eyes of my apartment-house neighbors. The fence will be of ornamental brick and as artistic as possible under the circumstances."

CARMEN STRIKE ON GOTHAM LINES

Motormen and Conductors in Brooklyn Demand Increase in Wages.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—There was a strike today of motormen and conductors on three trolley lines in Brooklyn operated by the Coney Island and Brooklyn Street Railway Company, for an increase in wages, the trouble dating back more than a month. The company says it will hire strike-breakers. Police are guarding the powerhouses.

On the three lines affected the employees are affiliated with the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America. Employees of the Dekalb avenue line, which is operated by the same company, are affiliated with the Knights of Labor and they are still at work.

SAN JOSE CLERGYMAN LABORS IN THE FIELD

STOCKTON, Aug. 5.—Rev. J. M. Williams, assistant pastor of the First Methodist church of San Jose, has set a precedent for his brethren in the ministry by spending his vacation in the grain fields with a threshing crew near Farmington in this county. He incidentally ingratiated himself into the hearts of everybody else in that neighborhood by preaching for them each Sunday during the time. At first the minister created quite a commotion when he filled the pulpit of the regular minister, who was away for the summer.

CLARK'S $5000 CHECK
BUYS HIM GOLD PLATE

SAN MATEO, Aug. 5.—In appreciation of a recent gift of $5000 from Charles W. Clark, son of Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, the members of San Mateo Lodge, No. 1113, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, are having a gold plate of honorary membership prepared, which they will present to Clark in a few days. Clark is a member of Silver Bow Lodge of Elks in Montana, and when staying at his local home, El Palomar, recently presented the San Mateo branch with his personal check for $5000.

DALZELL BROWN'S OIL
INTERESTS ATTACHED

PETALUMA, Aug. 5.—J. Dalzell Brown, the former banker of San Francisco, may lose his interest in the local oil fields. J. W. Frank, an oil expert, who has had great faith in the local oil fields, having filed an attachment on all Dalzell's interests for the protection of claims amounting to more than $1500. Of this amount $500 represents an assigned claim due X. Ducker for rent.

LEISHMAN GIVEN WILHELM'S O. K.

Emperor of Germany Quickly
Wires Approval of New American Diplomat.

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Germany has accepted John G. A. Leishman as Ambassador from the United States at Berlin. Emperor William, immediately upon receiving the proposal of Washington, telegraphed his reply to the foreign office, where he is touring. The action taken is almost unprecedented in promptness.

Major von Kiecken Wichter, the German Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who has a personal acquaintance with Leishman, is most pleased with his appointment. Leishman's long service as a diplomat qualifies him particularly in the eyes of the Emperor, who several times has spoken of the need of an experienced Ambassador for the Berlin post, and of his desire that no novice be sent here. The selection also is acceptable to German society, in which Leishman and his family have many friends.

BRYAN GETS BERTH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—It is learned that Charles Page Bryan of Chicago, United States Minister to Belgium, will succeed Thomas J. O'Brien as ambassador to Belgium. Bryan will be shifted to Rome to take the place left vacant by the transfer of Leishman to Berlin as Ambassador to succeed Hill.

Bryan has been Minister to Belgium since December 21, 1909. He served as United States Minister to Portugal. He entered the diplomatic service in 1897 as United States Minister to China, and he has also served in a similar capacity in Brazil and Switzerland.

SUPREME COURT MAKES REVERSALS

Water Rights at Sacramento
Involved in One of Two Decisions.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—A decision handed down in the supreme court reverses the judgment of the superior court of Sacramento county in the case of Henry Heier, who obtained an injunction to prevent Joseph Krull and others from enlarging the "Old Live Oak Slough" and building a dike to drain this water upon Heier's land.

Justice Shaw thought the trial court had deprived the defendants of a substantial right, striking from their answer the statement to the effect that it did not alter the natural conditions as to the flow of the water.

The court also affirmed an order made in the Sacramento court dissolving an injunction in the case of the F. J. Jerome Smith against the Gate City Oil Company to prevent the company from selling any more stock of Smith's on which there was a delinquent assessment.

FIVE WOMEN ARE HURT IN WRECK

Members of California Party
Have Accident When Touring in Nevada.

CARSON, Aug. 5.—Miss Margaret Ryan, head nurse at the Hahnemann hospital in San Francisco, suffered a broken shoulder, and four other California women were yesterday injured when an automobile driven by Mrs. F. E. Southern of Marysville, dashed down the King canyon grade, three miles from Carson, and turned turtle. The injured, besides Miss Ryan, were: Mrs. Frank J. Marysville, cut over right eye and bruises.

Miss M. Dixon of Santa Rosa, severe bruises.

Mrs. Southern, severe bruises; suffering from shock.

Miss G. Greathouse, severe bruises. The party, which included Mrs. Farley's husband, who was unhurt, was making a tour through Nevada. The occupants were pinned under the car and at first were thought to be dead. They were rescued by men from an army camp. News of the accident was telephoned to Carson and automobiles were rushed to the scene to bring the injured to hospitals. The party left for San Francisco by rail late last night.

BONES OF GIANT ARE UNCOVERED IN ARIZONA

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Aug. 5.—The skeleton of an immense human being found recently by Peter Marx on his farm near Juniper, northwest of Prescott. The bones had been partially exposed by the erosion in the side of a creek bed. Marx investigated further and finally assembled most of the skeleton, which is that of a man probably twice as large as the average man of today and several feet taller.

The skull is complete and in the jaws are teeth that are tusk-like in size. The bones have been seen by a number of Prescott residents. It is said they seem related to the remains of the ancient races found in such abundance in Verde and other valleys of this country.

WILL OF F. S. JOHNSON IS HELD FOR PROBATE

SAN RAFAEL, Aug. 5.—The will of Frank S. Johnson, late president of the Johnson-Locke Mercantile Company, who was killed by an electric train at Kentfield June 22, was presented before superior Judge Edgar T. Zook for probate yesterday in the presence of Mrs. Johnson, the widow, and her son, Gordon J. W. Dorsey. Mrs. Johnson's attorney, requested that the probate proceedings be continued for a week, which was granted. Frank T. Johnson, the older son, who, it is believed, will contest his father's will, was not present.

WIDOW OF KEITH SEEKS PAINTING

"The Triumph of Suffrage"
May Be Found in Paris.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—That the costly painting done by the late William Keith, entitled "The Triumph of Suffrage," as a tribute to his wife, is either resting in the galleries of the Chicago Institute of Fine Arts or is in Paris was the belief expressed yesterday by Mrs. Keith in Berkeley following a search of two months for the lost painting.

Mrs. Keith never saw this last work of her husband's brush, but he endeavored to give her a description of the canvas while he lay on his deathbed. He described the painting as representing a landscape, with figures in it, and overshot with a golden sunlight. He was too weak to describe the work accurately, and his crude sketch, executed just before he died, is all that Mrs. Keith has left to guide her in her search.

Following the artist's death a number of his paintings were disposed of by Edward N. Harnois, who managed Keith's business interests.

A wealthy man from Chicago purchased a painting answering the description furnished by the late artist. He said that it was a gift to the Chicago Institute of Fine Arts.

Just yesterday she received word from a Los Angeles dealer that he had sold picture of Keith's answering the description of "The Triumph of Suffrage," to a collector who forwarded it to Paris, France.

TORPEDOES ACT AS BOOMERANGS

Eccentric, Unreliable and Dangerous, Declares a Naval Expert.

PROVINCETOWN, R. I., Aug. 5.—The experiments with naval torpedoes during the maneuvers here have failed to convince the experts of their values. The types at present in use, it is declared, are too eccentric and unreliable for efficient service. The report of one of the expert observers at the maneuvers says:

"The nicest calculations may be made and the torpedo appear in faultless trim. Then it will either refuse to travel or go skipping wild. One or two described circles and hit the ships from which they were sent. It is doubtful if they will ever prove a success in actual warfare. Either they will have to be constructed on radically different lines or a ship firing them will have to pump them under full steam and get clear so that they will not act as boomerangs as has been the case not infrequently in practice."

WOMAN AND CHILD ARE PENNILESS

Arrives in City to Visit Friends,
But They Had Moved Away.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—Arriving in a strange city to find the friends whom she had come to visit moved to Vallejo, Mrs. Regina Avoca with her two and a half year old boy, was taken to the Central Emergency hospital for lodging late last night. Mrs. Avoca was penniless after paying her fare to the address at South San Francisco given by her friends.

This morning neighbors living in the vicinity of the vacant house in South San Francisco learned of her plight and will look after her until she gets in communication with those with whom she intended visiting.

CALIFORNIANS TO BE GUESTS OF PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 5.—Portland is planning to provide entertainment for the special excursion from San Francisco and other California cities, which will come north to observe California day, August 18, at the Astoria Centennial. The excursion train is to go direct to Astoria, passing through here Friday morning, and will return here late that night, spending all Saturday in Portland.

The Commercial Club today arranged to take the visitors for a long automobile ride throughout the city and suburbs. An informal reception will also be held at the club and probably a "get-together" dinner.

Frank Lowry of San Francisco, now here for the Pacific Highway convention, says the Californians will spend the day in Portland boosting for the big 1915 exposition.

MEXICO-TO-ALASKA HIGHWAY PLANNED

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 5.—That a well improved road from the Mexican boundary to the Alaskan north is now a certainty was the expression before the annual meeting of the Pacific Highway Association in Portland yesterday. Delegates from California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia told of the work that is being accomplished and said their sentiment is now strong for the highway project.

The report of A. E. Todd of Victoria, B. C., was especially encouraging, he reporting that the road from Victoria to Hazelton, eighty miles from the Alaskan boundary, would be open next year.
